Oil Kills Millions of Clams

OLYMPIA (AP) — A grounded fuel barge has been pulled free off the Washington coast north of Aberdeen, leaving behind devastation in the heart of the state's famous clam beds.

The state fisheries department said tens of thousands of pounds of razor clams—along with other sea life—have been killed in a wide area contaminated with oil and gas from the barge.

Department officials, calling it a "major marine disaster," immediately closed the commercial clam digging season in a 10-mile stretch.

Assistant director J. E. Lasater, who toured the area Tuesday, said other closures may be ordered soon. He said the kill was spreading south.

"It looks like total devastation of a considerable area," he said. "There are areas where dead and dying razor clams are so thick you can't walk without stepping on them."

Lasater said he also found smaller numbers of dead crabs, perch, tom cod and other fish, birds, small beach snails, sea worms and other forms of beach life.

Fisheries biologists were trying late Tuesday to determine the extent of the loss. Officials had estimated a kill of 32,000 pounds already through Sunday.

The 10-mile stretch where the commercial closure was ordered is in the heart of about 100 miles of ocean beaches packed with razor clams, Lasater said.

Nearly 14,000,000 clams were taken in the state last year.

It was not immediately determined how many gallons of gas and oil poured onto the beach areas from the barge.

The Aberdeen World said it learned 500,000 gallons of diesel oil were discharged into the sea late Monday night to lighten the barge so it could be pulled free at high tide.

The World said another 750,000 gallons of gasoline had leaked from the damaged vessel since it went aground last Wednesday.

Archives Sure For City

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa agreed Tuesday to modifications asked by four provinces, including British Columbia, in the original Pearson plan to have a string of new performing arts centres built across Canada for the 1967 centennial celebrations.

An agreement will probably be signed in two weeks which will assure a new archives building in Victoria.

Trustee Office Phones Tapped

OTTAWA (UPI) — Labor Minister MacEachen confirmed Tuesday attempts have been made to wire-tap a telephone line in the Montreal headquarters of the Canadian maritime trusteeship.

MacEachen told the Commons there was evidence that wires were attached to one telephone line in the trustees' downtown offices that "with suitable equipment could be used to monitor" conversations.

SUCCESS NOT PROVED

The labor minister also said investigation to date has failed to prove whether any wire taps were successful in listening to conversations. He also said he knew of no evidence available, at present, indicating who was responsible.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America, said Tuesday he fully supports Canadian SIU chief Hal Banks and would oppose any action to remove Banks from his job.

SECRET PACT?

Hall was commenting on a Toronto newspaper report a secret Canada-U.S. agreement had been reached to guarantee labor peace on the Great Lakes and that Banks would be removed from his job in three weeks.

"There is obviously no truth to this story," Hall said.

Western Bank 'in Contempt'

McCutcheon

OTTAWA (CP) — Promoters of the proposed Bank of Western Canada were accused in the Senate Tuesday night of contempt of Parliament over news reports that shares in the enterprise were being sold before parliamentary incorporation.

The accusation was made by Senator A. J. Brooks, opposition leader in the upper chamber. Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon (PC, Ontario) said the system being employed to reserve shares in the enterprise places Parliament in the position of possibly being responsible for financial losses to subscribers.

$18 BIDS

Senator Brooks complained on a question of privilege that the Toronto Globe and Mail reported Tuesday shares in the western bank were being offered to the public at $15 each and bids were being made at $18 a share.

He called on sponsors of the bill in Parliament to explain how shares could be sold before

Peru Patrol

Savages, Snakes Get Four

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—A well-armed 40-man relief column is nearing a 65-man patrol besieged for six days in the "green hell" of the Amazon by 1,000 savage Indians, the government said yesterday.

The patrol has suffered at least four dead and six injured since last Friday in repeated sneak attacks by the poisoned arrow-firing savages.

Last reports received here said jungle jaguars and deadly snakes were contributing to the discomfort of the besieged patrol.

Kimberley Snow Stalling House?

'Ask Leo' Is Key To Session End

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The end of the first session of British Columbia's 27th legislature is only days away—but the question is, how many days?

But the eyes of 51 legislators, a dozen members of the legislative press gallery and sundry legislative officials focus on a garrulous, elf-like figure who occupies a desk in the ranks of the official opposition.

He is 56-year-old Leo Thomas Nimsick, the New Democratic Party member for Cranbrook and a resident of Kimberley.

As he rises from his seat during the waning days of debate hopes for an early end to the session plummet.

When he sits down they rise.

Cyprus Quiet

More Canadians Arrive

NICOSIA (AP)—More Canadian soldiers flew into Cyprus Tuesday as the van of a United Nations peace force, easing renewed fears that Turkey might create an explosive crisis by landing troops on this angry island. (See also Pages 5, 24.)

The total 1,150 men Canada is sending to Cyprus is expected to be here by the end of this week. A Canadian officer said it will be a few days before the Canadian contingent undertakes any duties in the republic.

Meanwhile, the guns of the rival Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot communities remained silent, although the issues that divide them still blaze.

In Athens, a Greek government source said that with the buildup of the UN peace force, there was no cause for immediate concern.

He was referring to the fact that Turkey's parliament Monday gave Premier Ismet Inonu full powers to take action in the Cyprus crisis.

In Ankara, Inonu told report-

Claw Killers Busy Again

DAR ES SALAAM (AP)—The lionmen of Singida, who kill and wear their victims with claws, are reported active again. The regional commissioner of Singida, in central Tanganyika, appealed to the public for co-operation in stamping out the cult, which springs up every few years in the district.

Sympathy for Hunger Strikers

Negroes Out of Control?

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A civil rights leader has raised the prospect of "uncontrolled demonstrations" in sympathy with a weary contingent of hunger strikers in the gallery of Kentucky's State House.

ACTING LEADER

The statement was made Tuesday by Negro lawyer Harry McAlpin of Louisville, acting chairman of the Allied Organizations for Civil Rights and a member of the state board of education.

"The dignity and public image of Kentucky is seriously at stake," McAlpin said. "Uncontrolled demonstrations may be triggered by the state general assembly's refusal to act on public accommodations."

He said what began at noon Monday as a strong protest by 17 Negroes and six whites could escalate into protests throughout the state.

The group arrived from Louisville and vowed to sit in the House of Representatives and starve until the legislature acts on a civil rights measure now or in a special session. The regular session ends Friday.

BOTTLED UP

Bills which would grant Negroes equal access to public businesses have been bottled up in House and Senate rules committees.

Legislators, who at first reacted with humor and amusement, seemed a bit concerned Tuesday for the health of the protestors. But they held to the belief that the demonstration would not affect any legislative plans.

Plane Crashes Into Ocean

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — One U.S. navy jet fighter crashed into the ocean last night after hundreds of persons reported seeing an explosion in the sky, and the U.S. coast guard said the plane apparently collided in flight with a sister aircraft.

The pilot of one plane ejected and was rescued.

The navy did not immediately confirm any such collision. But the coast guard at Long Beach said a second aircraft was missing and the pilot was being sought.

All Eyes on Leo contention until it looks like it has been seven summers under a desert sun, and he is one-half of a classic personality clash whose other half is Premier Bennett.

Mr. Bennett has been listening to Mr. Nimsick across the floor of the legislature for 15 years and he gives the impression of one who doesn't really enjoy what he has heard.

Four times in recent years the premier has snatched back a supply vote and adjourned the House rather than have Mr. Nimsick gnaw at it any longer.

Each time, of course, the current session lasts a little bit longer.

This does not concern Mr. Nimsick. He wants to have everything clear to himself and be sure the public understands it as well.

Said a government member yesterday: "Sometimes Leo makes things so clear we wish we had never proposed them in the first place, no matter how good they were."

Some Liberal members, who express the desire to get back to their own businesses before the bailiff moves in, have a theory that Mr. Nimsick wants a year-round legislative session so there will be no hurry.

Even some of Mr. Nimsick's NDP colleagues have noted a cavalier attitude on the part of the Cranbrook member towards the alleged importance of time.

SESSION ENDS

When one New Democrat was asked when the session would end, he replied "ask Leo."

"Well," the naive questioner continued, "isn't Leo anxious to get back to his home in Kimberley?"

"Have you ever lived in Kimberley?" was the rejoinder.

PALL CAST

At one point yesterday a pall of gloom was suddenly cast over the countenances of those NDP members who seemed to feel their 1963 contribution to the legislative affairs of the province was already signed, sealed and delivered.

The cause?

As far as the length of the session is concerned there are two camps.

STEAL AWAY

One camp has loosened its tent pegs and wants to steal away Friday or Saturday.

Leo Nimsick is the other camp. He says a week Thursday.

As he explained to reporters last night, "There's a lot of discussion to come yet."

What had he found notable about this session?

Victorian Honored

The Salvation Army's Order of Distinguished Auxiliary Service Cross was presented at Matson Lodge Tuesday evening to William McIntyre, former president of the Army's Victoria advisory committee.

Mr. McIntyre retired as president last year. The medal and citation were awarded in recognition of his work as chairman of the local committee, his work in Red Shield campaigns and his legal work in connection with Army affairs.

The presentation was made at the annual general meeting of the Salvation Army. Tom Leeming was elected president of the local advisory board for another term.

Your Good Health

Noses, Not Mouths Breathing Organs

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I have two grandchildren, nine and 13, who inhale and exhale night and day through their mouths. Both have allergies and the older one is receiving injections for this. Both say they cannot breathe through their noses.

When I was training for public school work 40 years ago, instructors and books on child health stressed the dangers, and I was told to use all means of breaking this "habit" to prevent malformation of the throat and growth of adenoids. So I am wondering if these youngsters shouldn't have this corrected.—R.H.D.

Mouth breathing is not natural. We were intended to breathe through our noses, and we do so unless something prevents us from doing it.

By blaming adenoids on mouth breathing, we were confusing cause and effect. Rather, adenoids (and tonsils, too) can interfere with breathing if they are enlarged.

Or there may be other causes, but they all point to the same thing: Some obstruction of the air passages.

NOT UNCOMMON

While adenoids are the most frequent cause of mouth breathing, it is not uncommon for some types of allergy to be accompanied by a swollen, boggy nasal membrane. The shape of a child's face can have an effect. If the passages are structurally narrow, less swelling is enough to interfere with breathing.

Allergy treatments may relieve the problems of these children. I assume there has been inspection of tonsils and adenoids to see whether they are a further handicap.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has poor circulation in his legs; his feet are always cold. What effect if any does smoking have? —MRS. V.P.

Smoking causes spasm of the smaller blood vessels or arterioles, thus reducing circulation still more. Tobacco in this way aggravates the condition considerably, and he should give it up.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a small break in the skin between my toes. Is this athlete's foot? I had this once before and a doctor told me to soak my feet in potassium permanganate and water, and to boil my socks. I can't boil them because I am in a rest home. Is it all right to wear just washed socks?—G.K.

It sounds as if it is athlete's foot. That means a fungus infection. The potassium permanganate does a fair job, but it is messy, stains skin and anything else it touches. It is also poisonous and must be handled carefully. More modern non-staining remedies are available in drug stores and if you follow directions, they do a fine job.

If you can't boil socks, have them ironed if possible; otherwise just let a pair rest a long time between wearings, and you'll manage all right.

Deviation, Adultery No Crime

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Adultery and acts of sexual deviation performed by adults with mutual consent no longer would be considered crimes in New York State under recommendations made Monday by a state study commission. Such acts now are misdemeanors under present state law.

The commission chairman said the recommendations on adultery and sexual deviation were based on the principle that such conduct "falls within the area of private morals" and is not a matter for public concern.

Proposed Bank Hit in Senate

Parliament incorporates the institution.

Senator T. D'Arcy Leonard (L., Ontario), who introduced the incorporation bill last month said shares aren't actually being offered. Instead trust certificates were being sold entitling the holders to purchase shares provided Parliament approves the incorporation.

He said money from the sale of certificates is held in trust and can only be used to buy bank shares if Parliament approves the incorporation. If Parliament rejected the measure, the money would be refunded with interest by the trustees.

McCUTCHEON CRITICAL

Senator McCutcheon said that no matter how legal the method employed, Parliament was placed in the position that if it did not incorporate the bank the investors were going to lose money.

He said it is true that what is offered is not a share in the bank but a trust certificate entitling the holder to purchase banks shares once the institution is incorporated.

However, these certificates had a value of $15 and he had been informed they were being sold in Ottawa Tuesday for $19. If the incorporation was not approved the purchaser of these certificates would complain that they had lost $4 a certificate.

Senator Leonard argued that the bank's promoters, who include James Coyne, former Bank of Canada governor, had been careful not to presume on parliamentary approval of their proposed bank.

They had merely made an arrangement for the raising of money for investment, if, as and when Parliament approved the incorporation.

He said Mr. Coyne and other promoters will appear today before the Senate banking committee to explain the procedure to the committee which is examining the incorporation legislation. He said he is sure they will be able to satisfy the committee.

Fears Eased

ers Tuesday his government will use all means at its disposal to protect Turkish-Cypriots "within the framework of wisdom, logic and law."

"If the United Nations force ensures security and order on the island, we are not going to interfere," he said.

In the east coast Cypriot port of Famagusta, several hundred Greek - Cypriot high school students paraded with banners saying: "UN soldiers, welcome to this green island," "We want to live in peace" and "We ask for peace but the answer is war."

NOT ON DUTY

Actually, the presence of the Canadians on this eastern Mediterranean island so far can have only a psychological effect. They have not yet gone on duty because their orders have not yet been received from the United Nations.

The Canadians, wearing the blue berets of the UN force, have taken over a small section of the sprawling Elizabeth Camp where several hundred British paratroopers also are encamped. The camp is four miles from Nicosia.

The first plane load of Canadian operational troops arrived at Nicosia airport late Monday night. Since then a steady stream of RCAF Yukon transports has been bringing in more men and equipment.

Satellite Noise Snooper

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. plans next week to launch a British-made antenna into space to eavesdrop on radio noise from the depths of the Milky Way galaxy.

The antenna, unfolding in orbit to a length of 130 feet, will be part of the equipment aboard the second British scientific satellite to be lauuched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

SCOUT-ROCKET

The launch, by a Scout rocket, is scheduled for no earlier than March 28 at Wallops Island, Va. The satellite, called UK-C for the time being, is a 150-pound cylinder 35 inches long and 23 inches in diameter.

It will carry two other British experiments. One will study the thickness of the ozone layer in the upper atmosphere which protects earth from the deadly effects of ultra-violet radiation from the sun.

COSMIC DUST

The other will measure the distribution of micrometeoroids, or cosmic dust, near the earth. Such information is needed for spacecraft designers.

These tiny particles can pierce thin surfaces or erode solar cells used to convert sunlight to electricity for instruments.

Red Fraud King Must Die

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Moscow city court Tuesday sentenced the mastermind of a 21-man fraud ring to death in a swindle scheme that involved $6,600,000 worth of goods.

As the judge pronounced his sentence on 67-year-old Arkady Grinberg, several women broke down in tears and had to be carried out. Officials said they were his relatives.

The ringleader's alleged accomplices received prison terms ranging from one to 15 years. Eight defendants were acquitted.

The presiding judge took nearly five hours to deliver a summing-up that thoroughly reviewed the machinations of the ring and specifically identified 13 of the defendants as Russians and Ukrainians and eight others as Jews.

The case was one of the biggest on economic crimes to be disclosed in recent months and followed sentencing last month of 23 fraud case defendants in which 10 were sentenced to death.

FOREIGN CRITICISM

In the previous case, the ringleaders were identified as "Shakerman and Bentsion Rolfman." They were accused of leading a ring that made a profit of $3,300,000 in four years.

The Shakerman case brought criticism from abroad that cited the Soviet government for alleged anti-Semitism in the predominance of Jewish defendants.

FROM 1956 TO 1962

The judgment disclosed that the Grinberg ring had been in operation from 1956 to 1962, when most of the defendants were arrested.

The ring, operating in the Russian republic of ByeloRussia and Georgia, ordered yarn from a cotton factory in Tomsk and resold it to a knitting factory in Lvov.

The yarn, procured through orders illegally issued on behalf of Communist Party organizations, was sold at a fabulous profit which went largely to Grinberg.

The value of knitted goods involved was estimated at $6,600,000 with Grinberg alone pocketing $152,700 profit, the court said.

Grinberg, described as an unemployed idler, also thought up another ruse. Through his contacts with four party members, also defendants, he was able to get cotton factories to sell unregistered raw materials to the knitting factory for a further profit.

Sequel to Criticism

West German Envoy Ousted by Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia Tuesday ordered the expulsion from Moscow of the commercial counsellor of the West German embassy here in the first such action against a Bonn government diplomat.

Dr. Heinz Naupert was declared persona non-grata and ordered to leave within five days. No reason was given for the action, which coincided with recent signs of a cooling in Soviet-West German relations.

ONE OF MOST ABLE

The expulsion was the first in the history of the West German embassy in Moscow. The embassy had no comment.

The expulsion came nine days after Russia charged the Bonn government with "militarism" and called for inspection of arms production in West Germany.

The Soviet note of March 8 was the first Soviet blast against West Germany since Ludwig Erhard took over as chancellor from Konrad Adenauer last October. It was considered to be one of the most severe of recent times.

Giant Fire Licked

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Firemen used everything from picks to airplanes Tuesday to win a two-day battle, containing two of three giant brush fires that caused at least $3,000,000 damage and forced thousands to evacuate their homes.

Reduced winds enabled firemen to gain the upper hand, although there were gusts of 50 miles an hour or more.

COMBINED LOSS

Combined acreage loss from the fires was about 13,000, with from 30 to 60 structures destroyed or damaged.

Other fires popped out in southern California from Riverside to Los Angeles on one of the warmest days of the year. The high of 84 in downtown Los Angeles was the warmest for the date in 49 years.

14 LOST LIVES

In the Midwest, officials said the Ohio River's most destructive rampage in almost 20 years took 14 lives.

350 FARM BUILDINGS

It said 176 house trailers, 350 farm buildings, 31 boats and 901 small businesses were destroyed or damaged, 830 persons were hurt and damage was estimated at $100,000,000.

Mexican Congress Speech

De Gaulle Nearly Mobbed

MEXICO CITY (AP)—President de Gaulle turned "civilian" Tuesday, but continued to impress his Mexican hosts.

The French chief of state donned a double-breasted charcoal grey suit in place of the khaki general's uniform he wore on arrival Monday.

Mexicans shouted and cheered just the same as he rushed through a packed schedule that included an address before a joint session of Congress.

De Gaulle launched his second day in this country with an unscheduled visit to a home trade fair, the largest of its kind ever held in Mexico. He looked over several exhibits and mingled with the crowd.

ALMOST MOBBED

De Gaulle again deviated from routine when he left the ceremony. He broke through a protective line of soldiers to shake hands with a dozen or more smiling Mexicans. He was virtually mobbed and security agents had to come to his rescue.

He seemed a bit shaken by the experience and with relief entered Tello's limousine for a long drive to a housing project.

Experimental Sub Launched

CHERBOURG (AP) — The experimental submarine Gymnote, expected to be the forerunner of missile-firing French atomic submarines, was launched Tuesday.

The 2,000-ton Gymnote was originally planned as an atomic submarine powered by enriched uranium from the U.S. When the U.S. refused to release the fuel, plans were redrawn for a conventional power system.

U.S. to Step Up Aid To South Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. said Tuesday it plans to step up both its economic and military aid program to South Viet Nam where there have "unquestionably been setbacks" in the war against the Communist guerrillas.

The White House announcement was issued after President Johnson and the national security council heard a detailed report on Viet Nam from Defence Secretary McNamara and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

TWO FACTORS

The White House blamed the setbacks on two factors—increased shipments of guns and men to the guerrillas and the confusion caused by the changes of government in South Viet Nam.

To counteract this, the White House said it planned to bolster the government with new shipments of economic aid, and an increased military training program.

The new aid would be tied to a South Vietnamese battle plan developed by Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the new head of the government.

DVA Hospitals

ONE GREAT VIRTUE of the veterans' hospitals has been the atmosphere they engendered for the patients concerned, the extension of a wartime comradeship which undoubtedly is helpful towards their recovery. This was a factor in setting up these hospitals as a national responsibility.

Something like the B.C. government's desire to escape mental hospital responsibility may be deduced from the federal plan to integrate the DVA institutions with general hospitals operated at the community level, "buying" the services but ceasing to be charged with their operation.

This was a recommendation of the Glassco commission rejected by the Diefenbaker regime, which said in effect "hands off the DVA hospitals." That government recognized the continuing obligation on the federal level of the need to acknowledge a debt owed to those who served the country in war.

The proposed change will cause dismay to veterans, already on record by the Royal Canadian Legion as opposed to any dilution of the services available to ex-servicemen. They fear, and not without some justification, that the result will be curtailment of the treatment customarily at their disposal.

If the idea is to help provide additional bed space for regular hospitals through this integration it can only be at the expense of the veterans. Some of them will have to be denied entrance to make the room available. It seems obvious that veterans receiving treatment for non-pensionable ailments will find it more difficult to secure hospital care if their own institution is thrown wide open. Nor is it easy to see how this will materially help the overall picture of hospital availability.

Mr. Roger Teillet, the veterans' minister, made a surprising remark when he said that DVA hospitals had deteriorated after the first war until the beginning of the second to a point where "they had an unenviable reputation." If this were so he is forgetting that his own party, the Liberals, were in power thirteen out of the twenty years between the wars and responsible for the last five years of this "deterioration."

And if as he now says it is problematical if his department can maintain the current high standards in DVA hospitals, this is an admission of inability to live up to a responsibility recognized when these were created.

Certainly the therapy associated with being among their kind in DVA hospitals will end for war veterans if these institutions disappear as such.

Why Hang Back?

SAANICH COUNCIL doesn't like the idea of Greater Victoria representatives seeking to meet Premier Bennett to talk about the future operation of the bus system. It fears, in the words of Councillor Hugh Curtis, that this approach would be playing into the government's hands.

Certainly the premier seems to want the municipal leaders to make the first move. That is implicit in his recent reply in the legislature to a request for a clear statement of policy. The premier, Mr. Bennett said, would welcome any overtures by the cities and municipalities involved, with a conference including the B.C. Hydro and the government.

But hanging back on this account is surely carrying suspicion to the extreme. What harm can result from attempting at this time to solidify provincial and municipal thinking on this subject instead of waiting for three years until the transit franchise expires?

B.C. Hydro obviously would like to get rid of its bus-system responsibilities in Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver and stop losing money in this field. But the B.C. Electric was obliged to accept the transit deficits as part of its overall profit picture in the metropolitan areas. B.C. Hydro can logically be expected to continue to do so—unless the provincial government wants to set up a subsidized urban bus authority, or underwrite the losses of municipally-owned systems, or drop the systems into the communities' laps without subsidies but give their residents a compensating reduction in power rates.

A conference can only indicate which of these courses the government prefers, or if it has other and less acceptable ideas against which the civic leaders must rally their forces to fight. The sooner the municipalities, the government and the hydro authority get together, the more time there will be for sensible talk and careful preparation for any new arrangement before the franchises run out.

Getting Out the Vote

THE IDEA IS PUT forth that for the next civic election teams of motorists, supplied perhaps by service clubs and other community organizations, should be employed to take people to the poll. They would be organized in the fashion of fund campaign drives, with allotted areas and block captains to see that no one was missed.

In this way, it is thought, a larger turnout of voters may be effected than unfortunately is normally the case.

The idea is a good one and worth pursuing, but it burks one remaining factor that should be associated with polling day in the city. This is that with one central voting station it is difficult for many city voters, a proportion of whom are elderly and none too spry of foot, to reach the polling station. It is all very well to say that bus routes converge in the downtown area but buses do not serve every street by a long chalk. This may well be one important reason the annual voting turnout is at best only mediocre.

The fact indeed that teams of motorists would be spaced out to cover each district is an admission of itself that buses are not easily available to all eligible voters.

The need for organized car fleets would be greatly lessened if district schools were used as voting centres for the convenience of the voting public.

A Parting Gift

IN A HEART-WARMING gesture last week former crew members of the decommissioned fleet maintenance vessel HMCS Cape Breton distributed some $2,400 of the ship's fund to half-a-dozen Greater Victoria charitable organizations.

The generosity of the ship's company in donating this money—all of which came out of its personal pocket—to local charities demonstrates the close links which have so happily been forged in Victoria between its residents and the personnel of the Royal Canadian Navy.

By TOM TAYLOR

I AM not Irish, as I imagine my readers over the years have deduced for themselves, albeit the ancestors of my race came from the isle the angels sprinkled with silver to make the shamrocks grow.

Not that I let St. Patrick's Day go mentally unheeded; how could one, really. Last weekend the airwaves were replete with those haunting Irish ballads that touch the folklore spirit. And I was fascinated by a colleague's story on Sunday last of the Galway mayor who gave the word "lynch" to the English language.

What a stern test of justice to have visited any man, even back in the fifteenth century when life seems to have been much less sacred than in most civilized countries it is—today.

But one reader, whether in doubt as to my kinship with St. Patrick or, perhaps, because she hails from the Emerald Isle herself—what a lively caption that is for a land, by the way—sent me a greeting card.

And it arrived on Monday, the eve of the Saint's Day, timed just to perfection, you see. Greeting cards of all kinds should arrive beforehand, not afterwards, properly to suit the particular celebration.

Then there's no impression the remembrance is belated.

Incidentally this piece isn't of such vintage. It's provoked by the names on the card, wishing me a happy Irish day "even if you aren't a . . ."

Even if I am not a "McAlister, McBride, McDann, McCarthy, McGinnis, McFadden, McGinty, McHugh, McMurry, McNamara, McNeil, McQuinn, McVey, O'Banion, Callahan, O'Connor, O'Donohue, O'Dwyer, O'Flaherty, O'Grady, O'Hara, O'Malley, O'Roark, O'Keefe, O'Meara, Fitzgerald, Fitzgibbon, Fitzhugh, Fitzpatrick, Fitzwater or Flanner."

I am neither of them, but these names have the rich sound about them so famed in legend and song. There are others with the familiar Irish patronymic, the "O" that prefaces the surname, and the Victoria telephone directory for instance lists O'Flynn, O'Gorman, O'Halloran, O'Hanlon, O'Hanlon, et al, to add to the complement.

And, of course, the well-known Celtic "Mc" is what causes Irishmen to be inelegantly called "Mick," although this is equivalent to the Highland "Mac" and should be so pronounced.

They are a widespread family, are the "Mc's, "Macs," and the "O's," and I don't know how the world would get on without them. Certainly there was ample reminder yesterday that they are the "broth" of a race.

And the genes of the blood royal, which are said to envelop every clime in cousinly relationship, don't begin to rival the plentitude of the Celts.

Whether it was a warning or otherwise, my reader also enclosed a note about never buying an old tape measure; it will have been stretched. And advice to the effect that when measuring my waist I should stand easy, not cheating by drawing my breath in.

I hadn't known my waistline was in doubt, as a matter of fact, nor did I indulge in an extra-special shamrock dinner last night.

But my thanks for the greeting card; it enhanced the good saint's anniversary for me.

Quebec Would Have Advantage

Ontario and the Pension Plan

By GEORGE HOGAN from Toronto

ONE of the difficulties about the growing controversy over the Canada pension plan is that very few people really understand it. Few subjects are more complicated or technical. Because of this, there is great temptation for politicians to oversimplify the issues, and to depict anyone who questions the plan, or suggests alternatives, as opposed to pensions altogether.

This process is now well advanced in the pension controversy. Normally, an issue such as this would be a matter for the federal parliament to debate. But constitutionally, the approval of the provinces is required before the federal government can establish a plan. Herein lies the rub.

Ontario's Premier Robarts has said repeatedly that he favors a national and universal contributory pension plan. If all the other provinces would accept the same principle, there need be no debate between any province and the federal government over the pension issue. For if all the provinces accept the principle that the plan should be national and universal, they should logically accept also the jurisdiction of the federal parliament to decide upon the details of the plan.

But the basic inescapable fact is that all the provinces have not agreed that the plan should be national and universal. Right at the outset, Premier Lesage announced that Quebec would not take part in the federal plan, but would establish a plan of its own. Since, because of this, the plan can be neither national nor universal, it becomes the responsibility of each provincial premier to make sure that his province will not lose benefits by going into the federal plan that other provinces will gain by staying out.

This is precisely what Premier Robarts is doing at the present time. But because Ontario is the nation's largest province, and because her possible rejection of the federal plan added to that of Quebec would make that plan virtually unworkable, the federal Liberals are trying to make it appear that Premier Robarts, by doing what every provincial premier has an obligation to do in guarding the rights of his own province, is out to sabotage the federal plan.

In my opinion, the Ontario government may be making a tactical mistake in debating with the federal government the merits of the federal plan itself, rather than in concentrating on those areas in which Ontario would be penalized in relation to Quebec by going into the plan rather than staying out of it. Many features of the federal plan are unsound, not just for Ontario, but for all provinces. It would seem to me wiser to leave the criticism and debate on these features to a conference of all the participating provinces. What should mainly concern Ontario is the overriding fact that the federal plan is neither national nor universal, and that it very definitely places Ontario at an enormous disadvantage in relation to its neighbor, Quebec.

What we must get through our heads is that Quebec's proposed pension plan is only partly a means for looking after that province's older citizens. Primarily, it is a gigantic compulsory investment fund, which by the end of the century will place at the province's disposal a capital fund estimated at $8 billion. The possession by any government of such an astronomical fund makes possible what is potentially the greatest experiment in sheer socialism in history.

Whether this is the intention is not Ontario's business. But what is Ontario's business is that the availability of these huge capital resources will enable Quebec to finance almost any amount of highways, schools, hospitals, hydro projects, or anything else they want, which without similar funds Ontario will be unable to match.

It is a tragedy that the economies of Ontario and Quebec should come to be regarded as competitors. Canada historically has been cursed by competing regional economic interests arising from natural and geographic causes—the rural west versus the industrial east, and so on. But up until now, the central provinces have been regarded economically as one area.

It would be infinitely better for Canada, for Ontario, and indeed for Quebec, if we could continue to develop economic and social policies on a national basis. To fragment our already limited economic capacity into even more limited provincial groupings is to defy every trend of modern economics. But if this is going to happen, and Mr. Lesage and Mr. Levesque seem determined that it is, then Ontario must reluctantly but firmly protect its own interests and own future. It is for this reason that the Ontario government has insisted, among other things, that 90 per cent, rather than 50 per cent of the funding in the revised federal plan be invested in provincial securities. Because of the limited funding of the plan, even this will give Ontario nothing like the resources that will be available to Quebec. But certainly Ontario should settle for nothing less.

Mr. Pearson and his colleagues have had a lot to say about "co-operative federalism." Yet on a matter which is clearly a constitutional prerogative of Ontario they are adopting a pure "take it or leave it" attitude. It is preposterous that provincial premiers should be expected to go cap in hand before a federal parliamentary committee on a matter which is properly a subject for contractual negotiations between governments.

Premier Robarts has shown national statesmanship by his readiness to think in national as well as provincial terms. But it would serve no national interest to mortgage Ontario's whole future by entering into an arrangement which is more beneficial to those who stay out than those who go in.

Seven prisoners, including six leading Peronists, escaped from a heavily-guarded prison in Argentina and fled to Chile seven years ago today in 1957. One was Jorge Antonio, a former financial adviser to deposed President Juan Peron. He was charged with stealing the equivalent of $800,000,000 from Argentina during the Peron regime.

1923 — The First Lateran Council began.

1953—West Germany agreed to pay $822,000,000 in reparations to Israel for wartime Nazi persecution of Jews.

Enough's Enough

From The Albertan

IT'S a crazy world. The head of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Mr. William C. Foster, recently informed delegates to the Geneva disarmament conference that unless the Soviet Union accepts President Johnson's proposals for freezing the arsenals of the two countries, the United States will have more than doubled its present stockpile of missiles by 1965. And the present U.S. stockpile, he pointed out, is already triple that of March, 1962.

To start with, the head of an arms control and disarmament agency is a strange person to find brandishing statistics concerning soaring stockpiles. But placing this aside, we don't see how his implied threat is going to make any great impression on the Soviet Union. For what Mr. Foster was saying, in effect, was that the United States, which can now (according to Defence Secretary McNamara) wipe out the Soviet Union, will be able to do the job twice by 1965. As we see it, the only thing that could ever be intimidated by a threat of this kind would be a cat.

Too Much Hopping Out

BEFORE this session of the legislature ends a resolution should be brought forward by some members of the government, that there should be no leaving the meeting room when the meetings and the business of the people of B.C. are on.

You don't see our city council members of any city or community in B.C., or I bet anywhere, leaving meetings, and we people who vote them in expect them to do our business correctly.

As an oldtimer in my province may I say that there is absolutely no need for the members to leave their seats when our business is being conducted. There should be a recess period for 15 or 20 minutes, to stop this hopping out every time someone is going to bring up something they don't want to discuss.

Mental Health

If only our MLAs were moved enough by Mr. Tisdale's "five minutes" to visit Woodlands School and Essondale, and if, after seeing for themselves the conditions that exist in these places, they were not then further moved to demand a tremendous increase in the monies to be spent on mental health, then I could only conclude that their hearts were of stone.

Mystery

I was intrigued by a letter which appeared March 13, under the caption "Profits and Taxes," not so much because of the erudite observations contained therein, but more particularly because of the aura of mystery provoked by the pseudonym "Accountant."

As many of your readers are doubtless aware, a glance at the yellow pages of the Telephone Directory (prepared incidently, by the same much-maligned B.C. Telephone Co.) will reveal that there exists a wide variety of "accountants" from which to choose. The following classifications will illustrate the point—chartered accountants, certified general accountants, public accountants, and registered industrial accountants.

Others, presumably accountants, who utilize the classified section of your paper, are more reticent, referring to themselves modestly as "bookkeeping experts."

It is for this reason that I feel your readers would be interested in learning the identity of the correspondent who signs himself "accountant."

Will the real accountant please stand up?

Nationality

A "news" item by the Associated Press claims that recently deceased King Paul I of Greece was "a man without a drop of Greek blood in his veins."

This raises the question, what type of blood is Greek blood, is it similar to type "O" and can it be used for transfusions to save lives of non-Greeks?

This ancient myth of nationality is propagated everywhere. Like the bizarre story about Canadians celebrating their 100th birthday in 1967. How many Canadians will be 100 years old in 1967?

The property-less majority who must produce for others, to survive, have the same basic problems in every country. In a world that has been made so small and so frightening with modern technology, capitalist divisions of the workers into fratricidal, geo-political and profit-oriented factions is as outdated as the Dodo Bird. Loyalty to nations which function only for capitalism, state and private, can only result in continuation of insecurity, misery and war.

Universal unity for common ownership and democratic control of the means for producing and distributing wealth by and in the interest of society is the true patriotism for this planet's proletarians. Loyalty to themselves.

Castle Support

A newspaper report on Craigdarroch Castle quotes me as saying: "It is very difficult to get money out of businesses that cater to and fatten on the tourist industry."

This is generally correct, but there are exceptions—the Castle Society has the following sustaining members at $25 a year each: Miss Kathleen Agnew, Mr. and Mrs. James G. P. Audain, B.C. Telephone Company, Butchart Gardens, Douglas Hotel, Mrs. Jay I. Durand, T. Eaton Company, Empress Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harman, Hudson's Bay Company, Island Tug and Barge Company, Lund's Auctioneers, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan, Oak Bay Beach Hotel, Hon. Frank Mackenzie Ross, Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, Royal London Wax Museum, Vancouver Island Coach Lines, Victoria Press Limited, Mrs. Norma Pendray Wilson, Victoria section of British Columbia Historical Association, tourist industry group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, George Straith Limited, Home Furniture Company.

From this list it can be seen that very few of these members are directly interested in the tourist business.

In the last two months the Castle Society has written personal letters to 35 firms having to do with the tourist industry, and with five exceptions, the letters went unanswered.

France and Asia

Splendid Icing

By STANLEY KARNOW
from Hong Kong

NURTURED by President de Gaulle's recent recognition of China, the French presence is beginning to bloom in the Far East. Like so much else in the French realm, however, it is difficult to distinguish between mere appearance and significant reality. The icing is magnificent but it is still to be proved whether there is genuine cake beneath it.

Certainly in the field of what they persist in calling "manifestations," the French are hard to beat. In Hong Kong, for example, they have been holding a "French Fortnight," and this British colonial community has rarely enjoyed such a pleasant divertissement. There have been parties, wine-tastings, ballet performances, avant garde films and a visit by the attractive actress Mylene Demongeot. The shops displayed miniature Eiffel Towers and tricolors.

On the surface at least, the cultural crusade appears to have left enough of an impression on local residents to have increased enrolment in French-language classes by 75 per cent over the past year. Of course, as French teachers readily explain, students are far less interested in Corneille and Racine than in learning the Gallic idiom for business purposes. For they have all read the publicity about the promising French commercial boom in Asia and they want to know how to count their francs.

French trade fairs are scheduled for Hong Kong, Manila and Peking this year, and there may be similar shows in Bangkok and Singapore. With the signing last May of the commercial agreement between Japan and France, there has been much talk of increased business between those two countries. But the chances of a radical lift in trade between France and Asia are rather minimal. Individual companies may profit but overall commercial increases are not likely in the near future.

At the moment, Asian business interest in France is highly selective. Several countries are attracted by French capital equipment for such projects as fertilizer plants, railways, dams and airports. The Caravelle aircraft is popular and is now being used by the Thais and Indians. The possibility for consumer goods is limited, however, for many reasons. Markets for foreign merchandise in each Asian country are small, and often their development is inhibited by tight trade restrictions to prevent the outflow of foreign exchange. Moreover, many areas are largely controlled by other Europeans, frequently those whose roots go back to colonial days.

At the same time, there is still a residue of protectionism in France that keeps doors closed to Asian products. Last year French purchases from Japan trailed those of Britain, Germany and other Europeans. Though the recently signed agreement is supposed to correct it, the imbalance of Franco-Japanese trade in favor of France has not pleased Japan.

The hope that China's 700 million customers will be available to France is one of those dreams that has been tempting European businessmen for decades. But Chinese purchasing power is restricted by shortage of exchange and lack of desirable merchandise to balance trade.

Without doubt, the greatest impact France is making in Asia is political. de Gaulle's recognition of the Peking regime is certain to inspire shifts in alignments, and the new attitudes will not be statistically clear until next autumn when UN members stand up to be counted on the question of China's seat. At present, however, de Gaulle's advocacy of neutralisation for Southeast Asia has principally served to divide and confuse a region already Balkanised beyond easy comprehension.

It has been hoped, for example, that the tradional rivalry between South Viet Nam and Cambodia could be patched up. But by suggesting that Saigon accepts neutralism and reunification, which would clearly lead to a Communist takeover, while supplying Cambodia with tanks and jet aircraft, de Gaulle has exacerbated relations between the two neighbors.

Though these moves have played into the policies of Peking, de Gaulle has received precious little in the way of thanks from the Chinese. On the contrary, the Peking press openly criticized the General for "honoring" the "traitor Chiang Kai-shek" in his press conference early last month. Furthermore, Peking indicated its irritation with de Gaulle's suggestion that China's progress was attributable to the Communists' "implacable control of the masses."

Analysts here do not expect that France and China will have an easy relationship in future. For in his intense nationalism and sense of righteousness, nobody quite resembles a Frenchman so much as a Chinese.

Sunday Show Battle Not Over Yet

DONALD SMITH
. . . to press on

Victoria Socred MLA Donald Smith lost the opening round of his fight for province-wide Sunday entertainment legislation yesterday when he tried to amend a government bill amending the Municipal Act —but said he isn't through yet.

Chairman William Speare quickly ruled him out of order and got the support of an unsmiling Premier Bennett.

OUT OF ORDER

"How can you rule it out of order when you haven't even heard it?" he asked the chairman.

"Out of order," intoned the premier.

"Out of order," repeated Mr. Speare.

SAME FOOTING

Mr. Smith argued his amendment was designed to put all B.C. municipalities on the same footing as Vancouver, which already enjoys commercial Sunday entertainment and sport.

Mr. Speare explained he could not entertain the amendment because it was simply an addition to a message bill and not an amendment at all.

LOCAL OPTION

Councils would be authorized to hold a referendum on the subject and then pass bylaws corresponding with the will of the people.

Mr. Smith later said he will bring the subject up under the estimates of Municipal Affairs Minister Black and will propose a new bill.

MLAs Tangle

'Private Eyes' Hit

Opposition members levelled a withering fire at amendments to B.C.'s legislation regulating private detectives yesterday and drew a withering response from Attorney-General Bonner.

The amendments to licensing of private detectives were described by NDP members as being synonymous with wiretapping, an invitation to business warfare and a return to employee stoolpigeons.

Mr. Bonner said the comments were the result of "sloppy homework" on the bill and accused NDP critics of red-herring tactics in using the debate to bring up irrelevant matters.

Opposition Leader Strachan said he was unalterably opposed to some sections of the bill, which he said turned back the clock to the day when some employers hired Pinkerton detectives to spy on their workers.

'SHEER IDIOCY'

Mr. Bonner said the NDP demand for a recorded vote on the bill was "sheer idiocy."

The amendment is designed to permit the employment of part-time private detective help without the necessity of obtaining formal identification cards or having the part-time worker fingerprinted.

Exemptions to the identity card and fingerprinting requirements of the Private Detectives Licensing Act could be granted by the assistant commissioner of the RCMP.

The amendment also relaxes some conditions for bonding private detectives.

Cabinet Ill-Advised

"Not one of them knows the value of trees," the North Vancouver Liberal MLA told the legislature yesterday.

When cabinet ministers need information relating to B.C.'s forest industry they call in advisers who are more concerned about the interests of the big companies than they are the taxpayers, Mr. Gibson said.

During debate on the salary vote for Lands, Forests and Water Resources Minister Williston, the Liberal member said the province's timber resources are worth 10 times as much as the Peace and Columbia Rivers combined.

But, he said B.C. is cutting only half enough timber, while the other half is "rotting on the ground."

WROTE FOREWORD

Mr. Gibson also criticized Mr. Williston for writing a foreword to a MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. brochure on modern forest management through tree farm licences.

The brochure was mailed out to shareholders in the company.

Mr. Williston said he was asked to write a foreword which appeared in the MacMillan, Bloedel brochure and in a company magazine, but he did not know then the brochure was to be sent to the company's shareholders.

Mrs. Moran's Work Split by Department

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — After one month of waiting, the social welfare supervisor Wednesday split up the caseload of suspended worker Bridget Moran.

District supervisor Ellis Lindsay said the department has not yet informed him whether Mrs. Moran will be reinstated or fired and the imported worker who was handling her caseload temporarily has been sent home.

Mrs. Moran and four other workers were suspended for insubordination Feb. 18. The government said they had violated authority by publicly protesting working conditions. The four were subsequently reinstated. Mrs. Moran's case is not yet settled.

"If Mrs. Moran is reinstated her caseload will be returned," said Mr. Lindsay.

"We are able to provide the same quantity of service as we ever did," he said. "Of course, Mrs. Moran had 14 years experience and the staff is not acquainted with her caseload yet so for them it will be hard work for a while."

Mrs. Moran will be in the legislature when the welfare budget is debated later this week.

Jury Pay Hike Attacked

LECOURS
. . . better service

Ernie Lecours, a sometimes-maverick Socred from Delta, claimed jury duty could cost a businessman two months of his time and serious financial losses.

Instead of boosting jury pay to $10 a day, the government should pay a juror's living expenses and his normal salary for the time he serves.

The extra cost would be matched by better service from jurors, he claimed, because they would be free from financial worry and could give their full attention to the fate of the accused.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner pointed out that the amendment to the Jury Act described the daily pay as "expenses" so that it could qualify as tax exempt.

The amendment got second reading.

Lands Minister Williston said municipalities seem willing to tell one another what to do about parks but they are not too willing to do the same things themselves.

He was replying to Ralph Loffmark (SC, Vancouver - Point Grey), who had envisioned creation of metropolitan parks authorities to stop subdivision of parklands and potential parklands.

Mr. Williston said Recreation Minister Kiernan had suggested such an idea but that the province is not in a position to force municipalities to participate in area-wide authorities.

Vancouver might have a bigger smog problem than Los Angeles within 15 years unless a control is found for air and water pollution, Delta Socred MLA Hunter Vogel said.

He was anticipating problems which will arise when industrial development expands around the perimeter of Delta, up the navigable portion of the Fraser River and down the seaboard to the United States border.

In addition to smog, there probably will be "a high degree of pollution on every beach in the area," he told the House.

Mr. Vogel asked Lands Minister Williston if pollution controls can be anticipated and if they would be imposed on an area - wide or province - wide basis.

Debate Adjourned On Power Bills

Debate in the legislature was adjourned yesterday on two bills with potentially-explosive provisions.

They would declare valid all provincial power actions following the 1961 B.C. Electric takeover and would provide for an appeal of the Peace River Power Development expropriation price.

Among key bills approved in principle were measures:

- Boosting minimum public liability coverage in car insurance policies and maximum payments by the traffic victims indemnity fund to $50,000 from $35,000 after July 1, 1965.
- Providing for a standardized form of fire insurance policies to prevent possible fraud cases.
- Raising the amount of wages exempted from garnisheeing proceedings to $150 a month from $120 for married men and to $75 from $60 for single men.
- Reducing the minimum par value of a share of stock issued by a provincially-chartered trust company to $10 from $100.
- Preventing big jumps in assessments on land as a result of rezoning.

Estate Tax Loopholes Closed Up by Budget

OTTAWA (CP)—A handful of loopholes and awkward spots in federal tax laws were tidied up in Monday night's budget, including one which allowed older people to create a sizeable estate free of death tax.

One change in the estate tax act is designed to rule out a complicated device being used by some people to reduce their estate tax. Officials described the problem this way:

A person who normally couldn't get a life insurance policy because of age or sickness makes a deal with a life insurance company to buy an annuity on condition he is given an insurance policy. The company agrees, expecting he'll not live long and won't collect much of the annuity. When the man dies, his life insurance proceeds are not part of his estate for tax purposes.

One official said substantial amounts of money have escaped tax by this device.

Under the tax change, effective from Tuesday on insurance policies sold conditional on annuity purchases, the taxable estate after death will include either the amount paid for the annuity less annuity receipts before death, or the amount of life insurance payable, whichever amount is the lesser.

Another estate tax change will permit $2,500, instead of the present limit of $1,500, to be paid from the joint bank account of a deceased person without the need for a clearance from the revenue department. This is an easing of the rules whereby the department controls the disposal of an estate until the death tax is provided for.

An income tax change would levy tax, starting this year, on any amounts received by an employer from the winding up or reorganization of a pension fund.

Another change, effective this year, would allow the revenue department to recapture income tax on amounts previously claimed as deductible depreciation charges in cases where a taxpayer sells out his share in a partnership.

Ottawa Report

Cyprus Force Rules Accepted by Canada

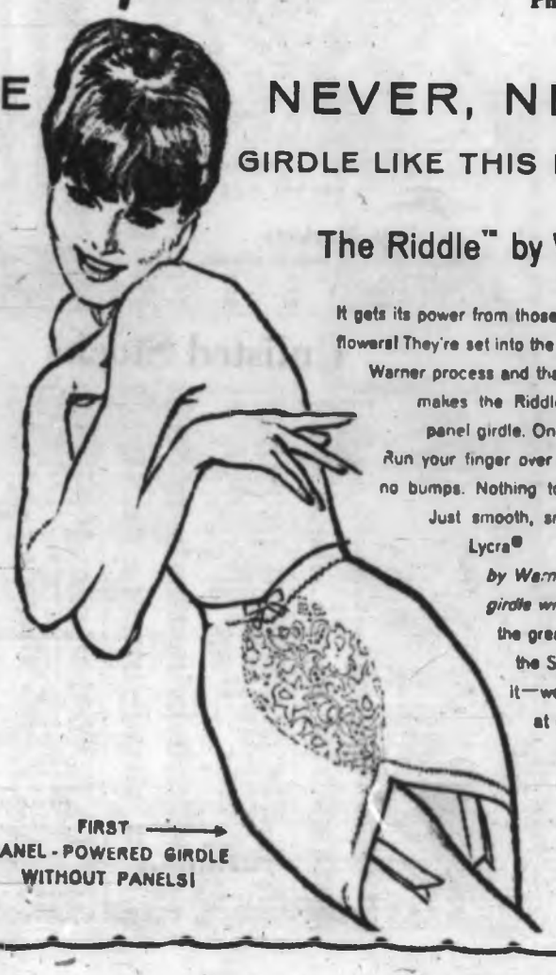

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has agreed tentatively to a set of working guidelines laid down by UN chief U Thant for the UN Cyprus force, officials said Tuesday.

They stipulate the force won't interfere in Cypriot internal affairs, will not disarm Cypriots, and will fire only in self-defence.

Also in Ottawa:

- Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the decision of Montreal world fair directors to adopt the "stickman" symbol after the Commons rejected it was an affront to Parliament. Prime Minister Pearson promised to investigate.
- The Dominion observatory said its hourly international time signal will be broadcast in French as well as English by May 1.

Tonic for Airlines

Interest in the airlines arose when investors apparently became aware of a published report that the airline industry, which usually suffers losses in the first quarter of the year, is expected to post a profit in the current quarter.

Pan American World Airways advanced 2⅝, United Air Lines 2, Eastern Air Lines 1 and American Airlines ⅞.

The rails, with the threat of a strike fading, made a comeback from Monday's losses. Up around half a point were New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio and Southern Pacific.

Mine Buoyancy Goes

Western Bank Shares Higher

Small Orders First

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Shares in Bank of Western Canada offered to the public of the four western provinces Monday at $15 were trading Tuesday at a premium of 3⅝ points.

The issue, a comparatively small one of 200,000 shares, was divided among the four western provinces at 50,000 shares each, and brokers were instructed to favor small orders to achieve maximum coverage.

SECONDARY DEMAND

Much of the secondary demand for these shares came from eastern Canada where there was no direct distribution of the new bank's stock.

A feature of the issue is that money will be returned to subscribers on the basis of $15 a share if the bank fails to secure its charter, or for some other reason does not go ahead with its plans.

TWO SHARES AND RIGHT

Other means of securing an interest in the Winnipeg headquartered bank are through Canadian Finance and Investment "A" shares (selling at $15½ for a unit of two shares and rights to purchase another) and through Wellington Trust, which will also be a major bank shareholder.

100 YEARS OLD TODAY

Canada Trust-Huron and Erie is asking customers and friends to its Victoria office on View Street this week to take part in the company's 100th anniversary celebrations.

Founded in London, Ont., 100 years ago today, the company is one of the real veterans in the business, and to celebrate the occasion it is putting on a display of antique furniture in its office and outside a horse-drawn covered carriage will be parked.

FIRST LOGS DUMPED

First logs from MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River's new logging operations near Squamish were dumped into Tidewater Monday.

Only 30 miles from Vancouver, the new big timber Squamish division has already cost $1,200,000 in construction of 20 miles of road; in purchase of new logging equipment and other expenses. A rock face 100 feet high had to be blasted away to provide access on one portion of the new road.

NO HORSE

A spokesman for the company said in deference to modern traffic there would be no horse attached. A pity for it's some time since I last saw Pioneer Jackson hitching his horse to a meter on Fort Street, and popping in the required nickel to make it legal!

But if there is no horse, there will be damsels in Victorian costume serving visitors to tea, coffee and cake, both morning and afternoon for the next three days.

Budget Leaves Market Calm

By HARRY YOUNG

As might have been expected from its contents, the stock market took very little interest or encouragement from Finance Minister Gordon's budget.

Stock prices moved irregularly, as they have been doing in recent sessions, and advances were made on good news from individual companies.

NO INDICATION

Most general disappointment among business people was that Mr. Gordon gave no indication of repealing his tax measure on building materials. A four per cent sales tax was imposed last September, another four per cent is due at the end of April and the final three per cent next January.

This gradual imposition of the sales tax will bring building materials into line with the vast array of other goods on which the 11 per cent federal sales tax is applied.

POSITIVE SIDE

On the positive side, the repeal of Mr. Gordon's earlier intention to increase the withholding tax on Canadian companies (with less than 25 per cent Canadian ownership) from 15 per cent to 20 per cent next January was taken as a sign that a better understanding has been reached between Canada and the U.S.

The budget also had the effect of strengthening Canadian bond prices, no doubt on the assurance Canada's money supply would be kept at an adequate level and commensurate with the increase in the GNP.

Mr. Gordon has a considerable amount of refinancing to do later this year, which should assure adequate official support for bond prices in the next few months.

K. J. DAVIS

Mr. R. W. Whittome, President and Managing Director of J. H. Whittome & Co. Limited, Duncan and Victoria, B.C., announces that Mr. K. J. Davis, Notary Public, R.I. (B.C.), Manager of the Victoria Branch, has been promoted to Vice-President of the Company.

Mr. Davis has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Company for some years and Manager of the Victoria Branch since 1951; he is a past President of the Victoria Real Estate Board and the Victoria Insurance Agents Association, and is presently a member of the Real Estate Council of British Columbia. Mr. Davis's appointment is in keeping with the growth of this Company in Southern Vancouver Island over the past years in the fields of Real Estate, Insurance, Mortgage and Security Investments.

Grain Markets

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were erratic on dull trade as flax again showed more activity.

In the meantime there was routine inquiry for Canadian flax.

A term deposit is money in any amount over $100 which is left with us for a period of over one year. For this a Guaranteed Investment Certificate is issued, and your money earns interest up to 6%. For example: a term deposit of $1,000 in five years earns you $338.20 interest. This represents more than one-third of your principal. So it makes sound financial sense to leave your money with us for five years to earn the maximum.

Phalocrocorax Aristotelis Innocent All Along

LONDON (AP)—The Devon County Bird Watching and Preservation Society triumphantly announced Tuesday that it has won vindication for the phalacrocorax aristotelis.

For seven years, the society says, the phalacrocorax aristotelis has been taking a bum rap for the phalacrocorax carbo, another member of the phalacrocoracidae family.

Members of the society want this stopped.

As a starter they have stopped the Devon River Board in its tracks, although about £250 ($88) too late.

In 1957 the river board began paying a bounty of 7s 6d ($1.15) apiece for cormorants. The idea was to protect the trout in Devon's rivers, since cormorants are notoriously gluttonous eaters of fish.

The board paid upon the presentation of a cormorant's beak. Birdless beaks poured in.

Recently the Bird Watching and Preservation Society became suspicious. They hadn't found a single cormorant's nest in Devon County for years. So where, they wanted to know, had the 600 odd beaks delivered to the river board since 1957 came from.

The society persuaded the board to let it take a look at its hoard of beaks. The beaks were not those of phalacrocorax carbo, the cormorant that eats both sea and fresh water fish. They were the beaks of phalacrocorax aristotelis—known as the shag, for short. A cousin of the cormorant, it feeds exclusively on sea fish and wouldn't touch a trout.

The river board discontinued the bounty payments forthwith.

"It seems that since 1957 we have paid out over £250 on the wrong beaks," a spokesman said.

Cowichan Copper

Mine Creditors Will Wait

VANCOUVER (CP) — Creditors of Cowichan Copper Co. Ltd. agreed at a meeting here Tuesday to a proposal of debt deferment to pave the way for new financing to put the mine back into production.

In the proposal, made by O. G. MacDonald, president, it was stated that acceptance would make it possible to obtain a $1,000,000 loan which would be tied to a concentrate-purchasing contract.

The meeting was attended by creditors whose claims totalled $3,400,220.

Acceptance of the proposal by the creditors must receive court approval. When approval is obtained, it is understood the new backers will make surveys at the Cowichan property at Jordan River, northwest of Victoria.

Cowichan's Sunro mine has been out of action since Dec. 6 when the river broke through into a mined-out stope and flooded the workings.

Columbia in Retrospect

Pact Crisis Avoided

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and the United States were more than $25,000,000 apart heading into the last 24 hours of negotiation on the Columbia River project, one of the American negotiators says.

That was Jan. 12—the day before final agreement was reached on payment by the U.S. of $254,400,000 in American funds for the 30-year sale of a big chunk of power to be owned by British Columbia.

HAD CHOICE

"Both sides had the choice of giving up and breaking off negotiations or sharpening their pencils," says a report on the negotiation crisis in a four-part series of articles prepared for newspapers in the U.S. Pacific northwest.

The series was compiled by Charles F. Luce, administrator of the Bonneville Power Authority and a member of the U.S. negotiating team.

The series gives background to negotiations dating back to 1944 and also makes these points:

● The U.S. Congress may be asked to supply funds to Bonneville to buy the Canadian power in advance if other financing methods can't be worked out with a consortium of private and public utilities.

● A lot of loose ends have to be tied up in the U.S. on power sales and other factors before the Oct. 1 deadline for handing over the money.

● The power sale actually will create some surplus problems in the U.S. Pacific northwest but some power will be sold to California users and the surplus problem is expected to last only from 1968 to 1973.

The Luce articles emphasize that only a few months remain to get all the final arrangements completed although discussions began Feb. 6 between the private and public utilities who will buy the Canadian power and put up the cash payment in advance through bond sales unless Congress has to step in.

THIRTEEN PROJECTS

The temporary U.S. power surplus springs from 13 projects—federal and non-federal—due to be completed in the five-year period ending in 1973.

By TED GASKELL

The electronic brain at University of Victoria is being used to determine if people can live together in harmony.

The IBM 1620 computer will be used in the coming months to process information and suggest a list of women students who can be expected to occupy the two new 75-unit residences and live happily together.

★ ★ ★

Personality details, likes and dislikes will be fed into the machine and a list of compatible women will come out.

This is only one of many practical uses to which the machine is being put these days.

Demand for space in the residences got computer the job few men would have the courage to tackle.

It is expected that there will be many more applications for the residences than there is space. Each of the two buildings will house 75 women.

Each applicant will be asked to provide details of personality, likes and dislikes. This information will be fed to the computer which is expected to produce a list of girls who could occupy the residences in harmony.

The machine was installed last fall for use in teaching but it is also earning its keep by helping university officials to carry out simply and efficiently many tedious tasks.

For example, it is helping to schedule the university exams. to start in mid-April.

A program of information is being set up so that when the exams are over, the machine can produce not only a list of the students' marks but averages in each subject and thus provide a basis for comparison.

The computer will assist in making registration of students easier, it will set up class lists and be used in preparing timetables.

The Pacific Naval Laboratory and the Dominion Observatory are using the computer for analysis, so are a number of private establishments.

The Alma Mater Society is now planning a new type of identification card for students complete with Polaroid photo, which will not only assist the AMS, but also the library and the administration.

The IBM machine will provide cards on which the student's permanent number will be printed along with other information and this card will be used throughout the student's stay at university and the information on it can be used in various ways over the years to compile individual and collective statistics.

All these things are run of the mill stuff to an IBM machine.

But whether it will be able to tell if a blonde who likes the Beatles should room with a brunette who prefers Beethoven, might be something else again.

Air Charter Sought

Application to operate a commercial air charter service out of Oak Bay Marina has been made to the air transport board in Ottawa by a young Victoria businessman.

Gordon Edward Dalziel, 30, of 5282 Santa Clara, hopes to be in business by the summer using a Cessna 180 four-passenger single-engine seaplane flying fishermen to remote lakes, sportsmen in from the U.S., and business people to Vancouver and Seattle.

He said permission to operate has been given by Oak Bay council and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce has endorsed it.

Mayor Wilson's campaign to interest more of Victoria's major businesses and heavy industries in the Greater Victoria celebrations appears to be off to a good start.

Already one answer has been received to letters sent from the mayor's office March 13. Woodward's Stores replied it will try to come up with something that will appeal to the association.

★ ★ ★

Number of members attending the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association meeting in the city hall last night alarmed association chairman J. D. Watts. Of 67 cards sent to remind members of the meeting just over 20 members showed up.

★ ★ ★

Steps will be taken to ensure that patients in the Veterans' and Mount St. Mary's hospitals as well as old age pensioners and senior citizens see the Victoria Day parade.

In previous years senior citizens were able to watch from a special section on the Pandora Green on Pandora Avenue but with the change of route this year new arrangements will have to be made. Parade master Bill Heighes said last night senior citizens likely will be in one group in front of the City Hall.

Mystery No Mystery

A mystery ship last night had waterfront dwellers scratching their heads and reporting a possible emergency.

"It looks like a huge cargo liner," said one watcher from Ten Mile Point. "It's ablaze with lights and it hasn't moved for half an hour. It couldn't be anchored where it is near the Chain Islands. It must have gone aground."

"It looks like one of those huge Australian ships," another reported. "What is it doing there?"

A check with the B.C. Pilotage and Air-Sea Rescue disclosed no distress signals had been received.

The Trial Island lightkeeper said he had heard strong radio signals from the Camsell and thought she might be close.

Radio contact was made with the ship.

End of mystery.

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

Once the miracle of electronics had contrived a marriage between prizefighting and closed-circuit television, the million-dollar gate lost all meaning. The financial figures announced after most big fights conjure up a charming picture.

One imagines the parties of the first, second, third, and perhaps fourth parts sitting around a table just as those Hallowe'en characters must have done after the Brinks heist. In front of them are neat stacks of green paper.

"Here we are," the top banana is saying, "one million for you, one million for me, two million for you, two million for me, three million, four — that's enough, shove the loose thousands under the rug."

What was the round figure cheerily announced after those six remarkable rounds in Miami Beach involving Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay? Three million? Four? Five? No matter. On these big theatre-television shows it is always explained that each dollar taken at the box office is split down the middle by the closed-circuit firm handling the fight and the exhibitor showing it on his screen.

In other words, if the coast-to-coast haul is four million dollars, the public understands that two million dollars comes back to the closed-circuit firm to be distributed according to the contract with the promotion, and the exhibitor keeps two million dollars less expenses.

The Jacksonville Story

Well, sir, for the Liston-Clay fight Chris Dundee and Jimmy Murdock had the closed-circuit show in Jacksonville Coliseum, a hall with 8,893 seats. Dundee ran the live promotion for Bill MacDonald, who bought the fight for $625,000 and lost several shirts when it drew about $400,000 in Miami Beach Convention Hall. Murdock is the Jacksonville promoter who worked with Dundee on closed-circuit showings.

Playing to about 50 per cent of capacity, Jacksonville grossed $17,298 at the box office. After Federal and state taxes, the partners sent a check for $8,169, representing 50 per cent of the net, to Theatre Network Television, Inc., the closed-circuit distributor.

Then they counted up expenses. Their projection equipment was rented from TNT for $2,600. On earlier shows the most they had paid was $675 for an RCA projector, but TNT insisted that they use a projector called Eidophor, which is supposed to produce the clearest and most dependable picture. TNT has American rights to Eidophor.

Rent for the hall came to $1,567.66. In these productions the closed-circuit firm leases the long lines from the telephone company to send the signal across the country, and the exhibitor pays for the loop from the local phone exchange into his theatre. This loop cost Dundee and Murdock $550.

Oops, Sorry

Insurance cost $300, advertising $726.40, and other expenses included six ticket-sellers, six policemen, four ticket-takers, 20 ushers, one sound man, one stagehand, the printing of tickets, and $54.25 worth of fight posters.

This left the partners $1,267.30 between them out of their $17,298 gross — they thought. Three days after the fight, Robert G. Thompson, of the Theatre Network Television, Inc., wrote them as follows:

"Thank you for your check in the amount of $8,169.

"Your check, however, is incorrect in that the percentage is calculated incorrectly. The percentage due TNT is 50 per cent of the net receipts from the sale of admissions for each outlet whose total gross receipts potential is $19,990 or less, or 55 per cent for each outlet whose total gross receipts potential is $20,000 or more.

"The total gross receipts potential in your contract submitted to TNT amounted to $36,535; therefore, your percentage payment due TNT is 55 per cent of the net receipts. I would appreciate receiving your check in the amount of $816.89 for the additional payment due TNT."

This works out by simple arithmetic; the partners' share of $1,267.30, less an additional $816.89 for TNT, left Dundee and Murdock with $450.41, or a clear profit of $225.20 each out of their $17,000 gross. (The odd penny must have got lost.)

"I honestly believe," Dundee says, "it cost me at least $100 in telephone calls."

He could be mistaken about that. Make your calls late enough in the evening these days and they're cheaper than they used to be.

NORM NESTMAN

Nestman Claims He'll Play Here While Ellison Blasts Shamrocks

By JIM TAYLOR

Norm Nestman, a baby-faced beatnik with a poker player's heart, said last night he plans to play lacrosse for Victoria Shamrocks—and thus launched the Rocks on their annual war with Vancouver.

Nestman is Vancouver property, the hottest goaltending prospect in Canadian lacrosse. He is also a sharp cookie when it comes to bargain hunting, and that's what he's been doing with Shamrocks and Vancouver.

"I'm coming over Thursday morning," he told the Colonist last night. "I've found a good job in Victoria and I'm going to live there. I'd like to play for Shamrocks. If I can't get my release, I'll sit out a year."

This does not sit well with the Vancouver club in general and president Bill Ellison in particular.

HE'S MAD

"He's on our protected list and I don't like the underhanded way. I might even say the filthy way. Shamrocks have tried to lure him over there," Ellison said. "I'm not one for stopping any boy from getting a job, but I draw the line at making them athletic bums, and Victoria has made quite a few."

Normally, Nestman's decision would leave Shamrocks delighted. Instead, they are cautious. Nestman may weigh only 130 pounds, wear glasses and look like he takes meek pills, but he could give lessons to union negotiators.

He is using lacrosse as a stepping stone, and doesn't mind saying so.

"I'm not too concerned where I play lacrosse," he told the Colonist last night. "I'm going where I can make the best deal for myself—and by that I mean where I can find the best job."

Lest anyone get the wrong impression of Nestman, get one thing clear. He is not cocksure about his goaltending ability, nor does he expect to be the overnight sensation of the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

BIG MYTH

"There's this myth about my ability," he said. "I'm not good enough now to be a star in senior lacrosse. There's too much I've got to learn. The only point I'm trying to make is that I prefer to play lacrosse where the outside opportunities are best."

"Nestman phoned me to say he was going to Victoria to look for a job," Ellison said. "Practically held a gun at my throat, saying that he'd stay in Vancouver if the jobs were better here."

Would Ellison, who has stated that promoting lacrosse comes first, make Nestman sit out a season by refusing to release him if he does come to Victoria?

PLAYER WAR?

"I haven't said yes or no," Ellison said. "But I'll tell you one thing. If this is the way the Shamrocks want to play, pirating other people's players, two can play at it, and I think we're in a better position to do it than they are. There's been so much dissension on that club the past few years there must be players who wouldn't mind moving."

"He played for our Junior Shamrocks two years ago and he's been bugging us to come over here ever since," manager Hec McNeill said.

"What does Ellison mean, underhanded?" said president Buss Morgan. "Nestman phoned me a couple of weeks ago, saying he was going to come to Victoria and look for a job, and if he got one could he play with us? What was I supposed to do, hang up?"

That Time of Year Again

With winter bidding a reluctant farewell in these parts this scene looks out of place but it's what's happening every day in Florida and Arizona as 20 major league clubs are well launched on lengthy pre-season schedules. Junior Gilliam of Los Angeles Dodgers looks as if he's out, and out some teeth, too, as he slides in at home plate against the tag of Chris Cannizzaro of New York Mets. But Gilliam got his leg over plate before the tag. Dodgers won, 5-3.—(AP Photofax)

University School XV In Impressive Start

WINDSOR (CP)—A touring Rugby Union team from University School, Victoria, B.C., Tuesday overwhelmed Eton College, 29-3, in the first of their five games in Britain.

Geoffrey Marsland, the master in charge of Rugby Union at Eton, said after the game the college was left with a "feeling of great admiration for the Canadians."

He said their "extreme zest and skill" gave them 23 points in the first half but the play was "rather more even" in the second.

Star of the game was Gary Simonson, the 196-pound American captain who, Marsland said, "impressed not only with his bulk but also with his own playing and handling of the team."

After the match the visitors were entertained at Eton before returning to London today.

The University School team, accompanied by headmaster J. J. Timmis and R. W. Wilson, a former Oxford University cricket and rugby player, paid £230 ($690) each for the three-week tour. The 19-man team includes seven Americans and an Argentinian.

Badminton's Best At Canadian Meet

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian open badminton championships start here today with most of the top players in the world listed among the 165 entries from Canada, the United States, Britain, Europe and Asias.

There are men's and women's singles and doubles competition and mixed doubles play with five senior championships to be decided in both the open and Canadian closed classes. Similar titles will be decided in junior competition.

Both the open and closed competitions will be played as one with the Canadian advancing the farthest in the open declared closed champion.

YOU PRONOUNCE IT

Top competition will be in the men's open singles class with 44 entries. Among them will be Chan - Narong Ratanasaengsuang on Thailand, Dr. Oon Choong Teik of Malaysia, Torben Kops of Denmark and Wayne Macdonnell of Vancouver.

Ratanasaengsuang, referred to as simply Chan-Narong because of the length of his last name, has been seeded first in the men's singles after Erland Kops, Torben's brother, withdrew and returned to Denmark.

Macdonnell, Canadian champion, is second seeded in the open competition with Yoshio Komuya of Japan third and Takeja Miyanaga, also of Japan, fourth.

LADIES' RANKING

Jean Miller of Montreal, former Canadian champion, has been ranked first in the ladies' singles. Marg Shedd of Toronto will not defend her title. Second seeded is Jean Folinsbee of Calgary with Sharon Whittaker and Dorothy Tinline, both of Toronto, seeded third and fourth, respectively.

Scots in Serious Bid To Merit Designation

TODAY'S DRAWS

Afternoon—Canada vs. Switzerland; Scotland vs. Sweden; Norway vs. United States.

Evening—Canada vs. Scotland; Norway vs. Sweden; Switzerland vs. United States.

CALGARY—As had been expected by most, it appears definitely that Scotland is to be the most serious threat to Canada's retention of the Scotch Cup.

Clearly showing the lessons learned in five previous defeats in what is now billed as the world curling championship, Scottish rock-tossers this year could pose a serious challenge.

Although Scotland is recognized as the home of curling, the roaring game almost died there. It was played in few areas, mostly on natural ice when it was available, and mainly by senior citizens. The knockout game was frowned on as being almost bad sportsmanship.

Five successive victories by sharp-shooting Canadians in the Scotch Cup final, which began as a two-country event in 1959 and now embraces six nations, appears to have created some changes.

Youngest rink in the cup playoff this year is the one skipped by Alex Torrance of Hamilton, and it is playing it the Canadian way.

Yesterday, Scotland remained unbeaten along with the Canadian champions skipped by Vancouver's Lyall Dagg, overpowering inexperienced Switzerland, 22-2, and then taking the United States, handily, 11-5.

Torrance, cooly doing what was once almost unthinkable in Scotland, deliberately blanked the ninth end against the U.S. with the score 5-5. The strategy proved good when Torrance counted two on the 10th, and then added two more on each of the final two ends as the Americans lost their touch.

Dagg and his Canadians just coasted home against Norway and Sweden, winning their second and third games 19-2 and 13-6. Sweden made it tough for the U.S. in the afternoon, losing by 6-9—but only after U.S. skip Robert Magie made a triple takeout on the sixth end which held Sweden to one point.

ROUND-ROBIN ENDS

Last two rounds of the preliminary round-robin will be played today with Canada and Scotland clashing in the evening. Canada plays Switzerland and Scotland plays Sweden in the afternoon.

A knockout competition follows the round-robin play. The first and fourth-place rinks and the second and third-place rinks meet in the semi-finals Thursday afternoon. The winners meet in the evening to decide the champion.

TORONTO — Newfoundland had a rare moment of curling glory in the Canadian mixed-rinks championship.

After going 0-10 in the men's championship and 0-9 in the ladies' championship, Newfoundland appears to have come up with a potent combination with the chance to mix up the sexes.

IT'S TRUE

In any event, skip Bill Allan and his rink from St. John's Bally Haly Golf and Curling Club, scored an unexpected double by following an extra-end win over Glen Gray's Albertans with an 11-8 decision over D. E. Miller and his Saskatchewan champions.

It left Newfoundland tied for second place with Saskatchewan and Cliff Macdonald and his Prince Edward Island titlists.

Ahead and unbeaten with three straight victories is Ernie Boushy and his Manitobans, who edged Quebec, 8-7, in an extra-end and then walloped winless Nova Scotia, 12-6, in yesterday's draws.

B.C. LOSES

Pontiacs Still Tops In Esquimalt Hockey

Esquimalt Pontiac Chiefs are still the champions of the Esquimalt Hockey League, and don't you forget it.

The defending champions proved that to 900 fans at the Sports Centre last night, slapping down University of Victoria Vikings, 7-1, in the opening game of a best-of-five final in defence of their title.

'TWAS EASY

They scored twice in the first period, twice in the second, gave up a goal early in the third then rapped in three more of their own. Only the clock stopped them from getting more.

Doug Couch, Jim Bronson, Orv Coulter, Joe Iannarelli, Sandy George, Pete Dawe and Bob Fowler handled the scoring, with Vikings' Glyn Harper the only man to beat goalie Ron Griffis.

MORE PROOF

Pontiacs' domination of the league shows in the all-star teams released last night. They placed three men on the first team and two on the second.

Griffis led the goalies in voting, Iannarelli made it on defence and Orv Coulter at right wing. Filling out the first team were Doug Bambrough of Vikings on defence, Harper on left wing, and Ted Sarkissian of Vikings and Ken Maxwell of Navy, who tied in the voting for centre.

Iannarelli was also named most-valuable player, Harper the most gentlemanly player.

Second game of the final will be played Friday night at the Sports Centre.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Two big new recreation areas have been opened up in the Chemainus and Shawnigan areas for the springtime enjoyment of fishermen, hikers, rockhounds, berry pickers and other outdoor enthusiasts.

For the first time MacMillan, Bloedel, and Powell River Limited has opened its Copper Canyon and Deerholme-Shawnigan logging areas for general public access during the non-hunting season.

It means recreationists will have miles and miles of logging roads to explore, a dozen or so new lakes to fish, and miles of new river and stream frontage to explore and search for steelhead and trout.

Access will be permitted weekends and holidays from daylight until half an hour after sunset.

No camping will be allowed inside the logging gates.

* * *

To enter the Deerholme-Shawnigan area go up Indian Road from the White Bridge at Duncan, turn at the Glenora hall, go about one mile to the second turn on the right, past Glenora school, to the logging road.

Permits are required to enter the area and these must be obtained from the time office at the camp, which is reached by going straight ahead for a mile instead of taking that second turn to the right. To be sure of getting a permit it would be advisable to get one during working hours Monday to Friday.

To enter Copper Canyon you turn off the Lake Cowichan Road at the old Hillcrest turn and as there is a gatekeeper on duty you may pick up your permits at the gate.

There are a number of small lakes and sloughs in the Deerholme-Shawnigan area, but their fishing potential is mostly unknown. Wild Deer Lake which used to be a favorite is now posted while it is used as an experimental lake, and you may not fish it.

You may travel roads which take you to the headwaters of the Koksilah and the San Juan River, but whether or not the rivers will yield fish that high up is something that has to be found out.

Last weekend there was 2½ to three feet of snow on the higher elevation roads in that area.

Spratt Lake, which is not too far inside the gate, is about the same size as Dougan Lake and does produce cutthroat trout, although they are usually quite dark from the muddy bottom.

Payne Road off Lake Cowichan Road is entry point for Copper Canyon area in which you can follow the Chemainus River Road right up to the headwaters of the Chemainus River and the Chipman Creek right up to its source.

Mac-Powell will supply company maps of both areas to all visitors.

In opening its gates during the fishing season Mac-Powell now joint Crown Zellerbach, which for some time has kept its Nanaimo Lakes and Nitinat area gates open during non-operating hours in the fishing season as well as in the hunting season. Mac-Powell's Ash River-Elsie Lake area has been open during fishing season for some years.

* * *

Cowichan Fish and Game Club's kids-only fishing project at Mayo Lake, at the entrance to Skutz Falls off the Lake Cowichan Road, is a big success with youngsters, 17 years and younger now recording good catches of rainbow trout up to 11 inches.

The fish and game branch will restock the lake in about two weeks.

* * *

Victoria Fish and Game Club Monday night voted to extend its third person liability insurance to include all sports coverage. That means that a $5 membership will include $100,000 personal liability coverage for all outdoor pursuits . . . hunting, fishing, boating, water skiing, mountain skiing and so forth.

Victoria members also voted to ask the fish and game branch to open deer hunting season at the same time as bird shooting opens, usually Labor Day weekend. Deer season usually opens two weeks after grouse shooting and deer hunters claim deer are frightened by shotgun shooting well before deer season opens.

But there were two schools of thought on the proposal and it passed with a slim three-fifths majority.

TOE BLAKE

No Reason Now to Quit

World Looks Brighter for Toe Blake

By DICK BACON

MONTREAL (UPI)—One year ago the Montreal Canadiens were bounced out of the Stanley Cup semi-finals, 4-1, by the Toronto Maple Leafs. It was the third year in a row that the once mighty Canadiens made an unimpressive exit from the National Hockey League playoffs.

Coach Toe Blake, who had won the Stanley Cup the first five years he held the job, tried to quit.

"Last year hurt the most of all," he said yesterday in an interview. "I wanted to quit. In fact I tried to quit. I told Mr. Selke that I didn't think I could get any more out of the players I had, but he talked me out of it and convinced me I ought to give it another try."

DIDN'T HURT

In the off-season the Canadiens made what appeared to some as a startling trade—six-time Vezina Trophy winner Jacques Plante and veteran forwards Phil Goyette and Donnie Marshall to the New York Rangers for goalie Gump Worsley and forwards Dave Balon, Len Ronson and Leon Rochefort. As it turned out, only Balon made the team, while the three Canadiens have been standouts with the Rangers.

Instead of finishing somewhere in the lower half of the standings, "Like a lot of you guys predicted," the Canadiens have a good chance of winning the NHL championship for the seventh time in the last nine years.

"I really have you newspapermen and guys like Plante and Imlach to thank," said Blake. "Picking us to finish anywhere from third to last was the best thing that could have happened to this team."

GOT SOME HELP

Blake admitted that the remarks made by Plante and Imlach, both of whom predicted the downfall of the Canadiens this year, provided him with all the ammunition he needed for his dressing room pep talks.

Blake is hard pressed to put his finger on any single factor responsible for the Canadiens' success this year.

"Beliveau (centre Jean Beliveau) gave us a big lift in the first half of the season and Charlie (goalie Charlie Hodge) has been the big man for us in the second half," he said. "Our defence has been much better than a lot of people thought, too.

"Terry Harper and Jacques Laperriere looked good last year but a lot of people thought their lack of experience would hurt us. But they've made a lot fewer mistakes and actually have played very steady hockey," he added.

But there have been some disappointments, too.

"Henri (Henry Richard) has been playing his heart out, but the goals just aren't coming," Blake said. "The same with Gilles Tremblay and a few others. But Balon has been a pleasant surprise. We knew he was a good checker but we did not think he would score as many as 23 goals for us."

Blake also figures that some added muscle has helped balance the team. In previous years the Canadiens lacked a "policeman" until they got Lou Fontinato but when Louie was lost through a tragic neck injury, they were back where they were.

"Fellows like John Ferguson, Harper and Laperriere are keeping the other teams honest," he said. "I guess you'd have to say that balance is another reason why we have done so well; balance and consistency. Until we went into that slump (four losses and one tie) we hadn't lost more than one game in a row all season."

Blake insists he isn't concerned about who he'll meet in the playoffs. "We just want to finish first and then worry about that later.

"Besides, I'd be silly to say I'd rather meet one team or the other. Detroit has killed us in the second half and Toronto is coming on strong right now too."

Bathgate Flirting With 'Star' Award

MONTREAL—Andy Bathgate is threatening a National Hockey League record, and in turn is being threatened by an asterisk.

Bathgate has 54 assists, only four short of the NHL mark of 58 set by Montreal's Jean Beliveau. But in being traded from New York Rangers to Toronto Maple Leafs, Bathgate got in an extra game and will play 71 this season instead of the regulation 70.

NHL publicity man Ron Andrews said yesterday the league will wait and see if Bathgate breaks Beliveau's mark, then decide whether to recognize it as a record or include it with an asterisk.

Bathgate has already broken the assist record for right wingers, formerly held by Gordie Howe with 49, and two other records may be set by the time the schedule ends Sunday.

Chicago's Stan Mikita has 89 points, two short of Beliveau's all-time high for a centre in one season. Pierre Pilote of the Hawks now has 44 assists, only two less than the NHL record for defencemen held by Bill Gadsby of Detroit.

Mikita, who appears to have the scoring championship cinched, taking a three-point lead over teammate Bobby Hull into the final game, has already set one record of sorts.

A two-minute penalty received last night against New York gave him 144 minutes for the season—one minute more than Beliveau's record penalty total for a centre.

Charity Bout For Cassius Is Ruled Out

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cassius Clay's manager, Bill Faversham, has given a flat "no" to a proposed winner-take-all heavyweight fight for charity between the new heavyweight champion and Floyd Patterson.

Clay has offered to fight the former champion with all proceeds going to their respective religions.

Patterson, a Roman Catholic and critical of Clay's Black Muslim connections, recently said he would fight the new heavyweight champion for nothing.

Two Toppers On Mat Card

Double main event featuring Bulldog Brower vs. Don Lee Jonathan and Bearcat Wright vs. Gene Kiniski headlines Saturday's professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena.

In other bouts, Dale Lewis meets Mike Sharpe, Enrique Torres faces Roy Collins, and Kinji Shibuya takes on Bad Boy Shields.

First bout starts at 8:15.

Ti-Cats Sign End

HAMILTON (UPI)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats have announced the signing of Don Montgomery, a 21-year-old, 225-pound end from Long Beach State College.

Hawks Apply Squeeze

CHICAGO — Chicago Black Hawks put it directly up to Montreal Canadiens and goalkeeper Glenn Hall put it directly up to Montreal's Charlie Hodge here Tuesday night as they combined to blank New York Rangers, 4-0.

Victory regained the National Hockey League lead for the Hawks, who rest now until they finish out the scheduled season in Boston on Sunday, and the shutout gave Hall a slight edge in his private battle with Hodge for the Vezina Trophy.

Detroit	67	29	27	11	178	192	69
New York	68	22	36	10	182	231	54
Boston	68	18	38	12	166	208	48

Remaining games—Tonight—Toronto at Montreal; Tomorrow—New York at Detroit; Saturday—Boston at Montreal, Detroit at Toronto; Sunday—Montreal at New York, Toronto at Detroit, Chicago at Boston.

Canadiens have three games left, and may well have to win all of them to deprive the Hawks of their first league title. If Hawks win Sunday, as is expected, and Canadiens win two of their three games it would leave the two clubs with identical won-lost records. That would leave as the champion the club which scores the most goals, and there the Hawks currently own a reasonably-safe margin.

Hodge has a three-goal bulge over Hall in the goaling battle, but the Montreal keeper has those two extra games to play.

Bobby Hull got the Hawks away to a good start in the first period as he twice tipped long shots by Pierre Pilote past Jacques Plante. Hull also drew an assist on Bill Hay's third-period score but failed to make much headway in his effort to overhaul teammate Stan Mikita for the scoring championship.

Mikita drew an assist on Hull's second goal, then scored the Hawks' third goal in the second period after picking up a loose puck at centre ice and stickhandling to within 15 feet before shooting.

Nicklaus Leads Golf Pros

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus finished sixth in the St. Petersburg Open last weekend, but the $1,400 he earned kept him on top of the Professional Golfers Association earnings for the year.

PGA figures Monday showed Nicklaus' official winnings at $13,500. Mason Rudolph was second at $12,477, Arnold Palmer, third with $11,850, Juan Rodriguez fourth at $11,126, and Paul Harney fifth at $7,595.

South Africa Held to Draw

AUCKLAND (Reuters)—Despite brilliant bowling by captain Trevor Goddard, South Africa narrowly failed to snatch victory over New Zealand in the third cricket test match here Tuesday. The match, like its two predecessors in the series, was drawn.

All-rounder Goddard took four wickets for 18 in 17 overs with his left-arm medium pace deliveries, and New Zealand, set to make 309 in 313 minutes, ended with 191 for 8.

45 DIFFERENT MODELS OF CARS

And if we had room here we could go on and on and list all the engines Chevrolet offers, starting at the Chevy II's 90-horsepower 153 4-cylinder (it's the thriftiest!) and ranging all the way up to the big Chevrolet's extra-cost 425-horsepower 409 V8 (it's the greatest!).

We could wax eloquent about the choice of transmissions, and how they team up with those Chevy power plants to produce some of the going-est cars ever. Or the fact that you can have umpteen different exterior and interior color choices – enough, in fact, to allow some of our lady customers to have the sort of fun in buying and choosing that they generally reserve for shoe stores. And all the models with bucket seats and all the models without – all of them comfortable as all get-out. And the hundreds – yes hundreds – of different extra-cost options . . . serious ones like Positraction and gay ones like the new AM-FM radio.

But all that's best left to your Chevrolet dealer. The long and short of it is, he'll go to any length to show you exactly the kind and size and price of car you want – and exactly how reasonable that price can be!

Contact Lenses Cause 14 Cases of Blindness

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Food and Drug Administration is investigating the cause of 14 reported cases of blindness or partial blindness associated by a Boston doctor with wearing of plastic contact lenses.

A spokesman said Dr. William Stone, director of ophthalmic plastic research laboratories at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston, had reported the 14 cases since last September.

Stone said the blindness was due directly or indirectly to infection following the wearing of plastic contact lenses.

The spokesman said it is estimated there are 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 Americans wearing contact lenses. He added that an FDA continuing investigation indicates that persons who have been wearing the lenses and are adjusted to them have nothing to worry about.

The plastic most widely used in contact lenses is nethyl methacrylate, the spokesman said. He added that this contains methacrylic acid.

When a lens is put in the eye, Stone reported, tears may be caused and these may draw out the acid from the lens. This results in varying degrees of eye irritation, depending on the amount of acid that was retained in the lens.

Another 'Brain' Lost

LONDON (Reuters) — British newspapers Tuesday splashed in words and pictures the loss of Oxford University scientist Dr. Ted Crossman to the United States.

* * *

Radiation Threat Cut in Half

MANCHESTER, Eng. (UPI) —The dose of radiation considered lethal to man now can be doubled as the result of a breakthrough in the treatment for radiation exposure, a leading cancer research centre announced last night.

Dr. L. G. Lajtha, director of the Patterson Research Laboratories, said the treatment calls for the injection of a combination of antixa biotics known as an "antibiotic regime."

IN LAST TWO YEARS

Lajtha said he developed the treatment during the past two years at the laboratories.

He said that up until now "there is a certain dose of radiation which we consider as lethal to man. This dose we can now double."

He said the new treatment has been used on monkeys, adding he hoped the need to use it on humans "would not arise."

Crossman is the 38-year-old brother of Richard Crossman, the opposition Labor party's science spokesman.

He announced Monday he was leaving his £2,400 ($7,200) a year research post at the university to be professor of industrial engineering and psychology at the University of California at an annual salary of about $16,800.

FURTHER ADDITIONS

Headlines referred to the "brain drain"—now a top news subject in the British press.

There were predictions of further additions to the "brain drain" — Oxford Psychologist Dr. David Vowles, now working in the United States, and Dr. Stuart Sutherland, 37-year-old expert on animal behavior.

The papers, most of which have severely criticized the British government for the recent loss of many scientists to the U.S., quoted Professor Richard Oldfield, director of psychology at Oxford, as saying the news was "disastrous for the faculty."

Crossman was quoted as saying that "lack of facilities" at Oxford influenced his decision.

Six Islanders Draw Irish Sweep Horses

Six Vancouver Islanders, four of them in Victoria, have a chance at the $150,000 first prize in the Irish sweepstakes on Saturday's Grand National steeplechase in Aintree, England.

The six were among 336 Canadians named on lucky tickets in the draw completed yesterday. However, the 336 are rooting for a total of 80 horses and less than half of that number is expected to start the race.

ALL ON OUTSIDERS

All the Islanders are backing outsiders.

OTHER TICKETS

The other Island tickets are QES 82899, C. Plewa of Port Alberni, Hoodwinked, and QLP, Poodle of Duncan, Barberyn.

Second sweep prize is $60,000, third prize $30,000 and consolations anywhere from $200 to $1,400. A near-record total of 69 B.C. tickets was drawn, 42 of them from Vancouver or its suburbs.

Victoria Definitely Involved

Garbage Dump Major Blight Says Curtis

Curtis

Concern over the condition of the Hartland Road garbage dump used by the city of Victoria and Saanich, was expressed forcibly by Saanich councillor Hugh Curtis.

He called it a "major blight" in the capital city region and said he expected that the Prospect Lake community representatives will make a strong case for removal of the dump when they meet the Saanich council health and welfare committee next week.

BEYOND LAKE

"It must be realized that this problem extends beyond Prospect Lake and Saanich municipality as a whole.

It is very disappointing to note that so far not one elected official in the city of Victoria has bothered to make a statement on this serious situation.

"I had hoped that someone in the city might have taken time recently to inspect the dump and indicate a willingness to study means of correction of the problem," said Coun. Curtis.

"The city is very definitely involved since it is one of the major contributors to the dump.

ON HIS OWN

"We cannot expect an individual council member or public health official to tackle this on his own. The entire question is of great importance, and should be studied quickly and thoroughly by all parties concerned.

"The metropolitan board of health and other health organizations should be encouraged to make further investigations and any necessary recommendations to clean up this major blight in our capitol city region.

NO QUESTION

"I can think of no other single health question in the entire southern Vancouver Island area which requires more serious, or prompt study than this.

"Even temporary cleanup measures now being undertaken by the dump owners and operators cannot be expected to correct the far-reaching effects already evident throughout Prospect Lake, Killarney Lake and the highland district, when big, old rats start appearing around homes on a regular basis, something must be done," Coun. Curtis said.

B.C. Tel Shuffles Numbers

Dial C for Change

By JACK FRY

B.C. Telephone Company has to change prefixes on some 4,000 telephone numbers to keep pace with Greater Victoria's rapid growth.

A. A. Higinbotham, district manager, said yesterday the number changes will be tied in with construction of a $1,000,000 automatic exchange at Cordova Bay this year.

"This expansion of facilities is necessary to keep pace with business development and residential growth in Greater Victoria and the Saanich Peninsula," he said.

Some 4,000 subscribers whose numbers will be affected by the prefix changes will be notified by the company by letter this week.

Three prefixes will be changed and a fourth prefix will be added to the system.

The EV 6 (or 386) prefix will be changed to 388 for about 1,000 telephones in the 4000 and 5000 number groups. For example, if your number was EV 6-4000, it will become EV 8-4000.

The GR 4 or (474) prefix will be changed to 652 for the Keating exchange, while the Sidney exchange prefix will be changed from GR 5 (or 475) to 656.

The new Cordova Bay exchange will have the prefix 658, when it is built and goes into operation in December, 1964. This office, on Wesley Road near Haliburton, will serve about 850 subscribers now served by the Colquitz office and 50 subscribers from the Keating office.

The EV 6 changeover will take place April 1, although subscribers will be able to dial either EV 6 or EV 8 and get the same party until December when the Cordova Bay office opens and all other prefix changes will become effective.

All the new numbers will appear in the next editon of the telephone directory.

Destroyer Heading Here

The first phase in a transfer of warships between the Navy's Atlantic and Pacific commands started Tuesday with the sailing of the destroyer-escort Qu'Appelle from Halifax for the West Coast, it was learned here.

The MacKenzie-class destroyer, commanded by Cmdr. A. G. Kilpatrick of Victoria, will be followed in August by the Restigouche class destroyer St. Croix.

Fund Drive Slated

Recreation Centre Delayed Till Fall

By IAN STREET

Plans for a porchlight drive to raise funds for the proposed senior citizens recreation centre were disclosed yesterday after Centennial Square planners decided to delay start of construction on the project for about six months.

R. Frank Allen, chairman of the campaign committee, said a special group has been formed to organize the door-to-door drive for funds on a date still to be fixed.

So far, said Mr. Allen, $15,000 of the $65,000 campaign goal has been collected.

IN FEW MONTHS

"We are very confident the drive will achieve its full objective within the space of the next few months," he said.

Special committees have been formed to handle arrangements for the porchlight drive and approach a list of special names and businesses.

Mr. Allen said the old people who will benefit from the centre for the most part aren't able to cope with the rigors of a door-to-door canvass.

"We're going to need a small regiment of help," the chairman said, "probably about 2,000 to cover all parts of the area to be served."

GIVEN APPROVAL

Earlier, city manager Dennis Young told the Centennial Square committee plans for the proposed $195,000 recreation centre building had received government approval. This indicates, he said, every likelihood the city's application for a provincial grant to cover one-third of construction costs would be successful.

With the drive to raise $65,000 —one-third of construction cost— by public subscription "not by any means completed," said Mr. Young, he recommended the scheduled spring start of construction be delayed until this fall.

"It will be worthwhile to defer the job until November in order to qualify for winter works grants which could bring in between $25,000 and $50,000," he said.

Project architect Roderick Clack said with a construction schedule estimated at 200 days the centre should be completed by late spring, 1965, even if the start is delayed. The change in schedule should have little effect on the rest of the square.

Ald. A. W. Toone, chairman of the committee, agreed reluctantly to the change in schedule.

Land Grants Urged For B.C. Universities

The provincial government should set aside 4,000,000 acres of endowment land for the University of Victoria and Burnaby's Simon Fraser University, says Point Grey MLA Pat McGeer.

The Liberal member suggested in the legislature yesterday "it isn't fair" that the University of B.C. should be the only university to benefit from endowment land in B.C.

The government should set aside 2,000,000 acres of land in the northern part of the province for each of the two new universities.

The universities should have outright ownership of this land and be given the power to manage it, but should never be allowed to sell the land, said Mr. McGeer.

This land might return $2,000,000 a year in stumpage rates for timber and this value would rise in time, he said. It could be "a painless way" of financing operation of the universities.

Mr. McGeer also suggested that the UBC endowment land, which is held by the government, should be deeded back to the university for further development.

Lands, forests and water resources minister Ray Williston later told the legislature that the government is already pouring money into the universities and that it would be difficult at this time to spend additional money trying to build up endowment areas for them.

Besides, "I don't know where I'd find 2,000,000 acres," he told the House.

House Told

Strict Smoke Bylaw Could Close Mill

The Moore-Whittington sawmill, recently acquired by B.C. Forest Products Ltd., probably will close down if Victoria city council insists on stringent enforcement of its smoke bylaw, a cabinet minister hinted last night.

Lands Minister Ray Williston told the legislature that if the mill has to be rebuilt because of the smoke problem "the mill will disappear."

NOT ENOUGH TIMBER

He told the House, in reply to questions from John Squire (NDP, Alberni), that B.C. Forest Products "didn't want any part" of the Moore-Whittington takeover because there was not enough timber involved to get into a hassle which would bring unfavorable public reaction.

The merger did take place, however, and since then B.C. Forest Products "lived up to their commitments 100 per cent."

The firm will keep the mill going but the final story won't be told until the smoke nuisance problem is resolved, said Mr. Williston.

No Parity For Police In Saanich

Saanich police have failed in their efforts to attain salary parity with Victoria city police and the question of a wage agreement will go to arbitration.

An unsuccessful attempt to reach an agreement was made by the bargaining agents and the commission at last night's meeting.

The Saanich force now receives two per cent less than the city police. At present a first class constable in Saanich earns $478.24 a month.

Commissioners appointed two men to the force to fill vacancies which were sought by 40 applicants.

A new police car will be purchased to bring the fleet's total up to eight.

Car Group Checks Idea

Victoria branch of the B.C. Automobile Association is currently considering the idea of whether to promote the idea of running lights for all vehicles during daytime, first vice-president Conway Parrott said last night.

A running light is a 21-candle-power light, attached to the grille of a car, which turns on and off with the ignition. It warns of a car's approach not only at dawn and dusk, but also in broad daylight. First used by Greyhound buses, the running light is mandatory in some parts of North America.

"I have one on my car already," said Mr. Parrott.

'Scope for Culture Is So Limited' in U.S.

By KEN JOHNSON

An elegant, sophisticated blonde will be window-gazing in downtown Victoria today, mingling unobtrusively with other city shoppers.

Last night, the charming and disarming Miss Kirsten relaxed quietly in a downstairs lounge at the Empress Hotel — and talked about her life as a world-famous soprano.

Born in New Jersey, Miss Kirsten began her singing career with the Chicago Opera Company after receiving training under Astolfo Pescia, teacher of Gigli, in Italy.

She has also worked in movies, TV and radio with such stars as Mario Lanza, Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra and Gordon MacRae.

"The scope for developing culture in the U.S. is so limited," she said, "I feel much talent is never fully developed. Classical singers must go to Europe for their training if they want to become professional, and this, I think, is often beyond many young, would-be singers. While I was studying I sang popular music—I had to—before I could begin anything serious."

Miss Kirsten, in the little spare time she has, likes to play golf— "I think it's one of the best forms of relaxation and exercise."

Of The Beatles, she says:

"I don't blame the boys themselves for earning big money while they can, but I do think the public is very gullible and undiscerning these days."

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I speak for millions of teenagers when I say your advice to "Persecuted" was lousy. She is the girl who got whammed across the backside by that moron kid in the school corridor. The indignant young lady retaliated by jabbing him with the sharp end of her compass.

Instead of saying "Hooray for you, Doll," you gave her heck and let HIM off. What should she have done, turned around and said, "Thank you"?

I believe "Persecuted" reacted in a normal way. Yet you recommended no punishment for him—only for her.

I'm disappointed in you. My mother is, too.—MISS INDIGNANT.

Dear Miss Indignant: The mail is running 100 to 1 against me. I have not received such a lambasting since I told wifes to iron their bedsheets. Read on:

Dear Ann Landers: Your answer to "Persecuted" was unjust. I know what I am talking about because something similar happened to me.

Last June I was standing on the pier. I bent down to help my little brother out of the water. A fresh kid came by and gave me a crack across the backside. I had on a wet bathing suit and the wallop really did sting. I swung around and pushed the nut right into the water—shoes, eye glasses, wrist watch and all.

My parents heard about it almost immediately and said, "We're proud of you!" They agreed a boy who would do so crude a thing deserved what I gave him.—SWEET 16.

And then there was a letter from Shawnee Mission, Kansas:

Dear Ann Landers: I usually agree with you, but I certainly did not like your answer to "Persecuted." You expect a great deal of a young girl when you ask her to be sweet and relaxed after having been cracked across the fanny with a book.

It was unfortunate that "Miss Persecuted" had a compass in her hand, but the boy provoked the attack and deserved a slap across the face that would have made his ears ring for 30 days.

The least you can do is send the girl all your protest mail. It would pack her 30-day confinement with sympathetic reading.—MRS. H.L.

This letter came from Seattle:

Dear Ann: Since when is it wrong for a young woman to defend herself against physical assault? It's time teen-age boys were taught to behave like gentlemen and respect a girl's person.—ALSO A MOTHER.

From Sherman, Texas:

Dear Ann Landers: Chivalry is dying fast enough without you stabbing it in the back with a compass. As the mother of a teen-age son and daughter I disagree violently with your advice. Please don't encourage the hoodlums by sticking up for them. — DISAPPOINTED IN YOU.

And so, dear readers, after over a thousand letters—all saying essentially the same thing—I'm willing to admit I let the slap-happy punk off too easy.

The girl, however, should not have been congratulated and let off the hook. A compass can be a dangerous weapon. Had he ducked, it might have cost him an eye. This is too big a price to pay for a crude gesture. Furthermore, no girl would want such a terrible act on her conscience.

An unexpected obstacle greeted Sub-Lt. Wolfgang of the West German Navy and his bride when they left the church after their marriage in Kiel. He was confronted by this huge rope across the church entrance. His shipmates handed him a small penknife to cut through the six-inch hawser, before he could proceed with his bride on their honeymoon.—(Fednews)

Rev. Leon D. Hall performed the wedding ceremony for the former Joyce Claire Soderquist, daughter of Mr. R. D. Soderquist, Portland, and the son of Mr. Constantine Prepchuk, Calgary, Alta., and Mrs. Mary Prepchuk, Regina, Sask.

* * *

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of bridal satin overlaid with lace and nylon organdy. The fitted bodice was styled with round neckline and elbow-length sleeves. A seed pearl tiara held her shoulder-length veil in place and she carried a bouquet of red rose buds.

Mrs. Richard Wright, as her sister's matron-of-honor, wore a floor-length gown of red taffeta with matching brocade jacket featuring elbow-length sleeves and round neckline. Bridesmatron, Mrs. William Drury, bride's sister, and Miss Sharon Gustafson, bridesmaid, wore dresses styled after the matron-of-honor's gown. They all carried two white rosebuds with garden green bows.

* * *

Little Susan Drury, flower girl, and Tamara Soderquist, ring bearer, were dressed alike in white taffeta floor-length frocks with red velvet sashes. Masters Stephen and Montie Soderquist lighted the candles for the ceremony.

Mr. Raymond Prepchuk was best man for his twin brother. Mr. Paul Soderquist and Mr. Gerald Soderquist, bride's brothers, were ushers.

Following a reception in the church hall the couple left for a honeymoon in the mountains before leaving for Canada.

Pipe Smoker Has Both Hands Free

TORONTO (CP) — Joyce Gilfillian of Regina puffed on her pipe here and advocated pipe smoking for busy housewives who need both hands free.

"You can just clutch it in your teeth and puff away for half an hour," she told a Business and Professional Women's Clubs conference on the arts of management.

* * *

Miss Gilfillian, executive secretary of the Canadian Arthritis Society in Saskatchewan, said she started smoking a pipe two months ago when she realized she was smoking more than two packages of cigarettes a day.

"The men like to tease and the women tend to envy," she said in explaining reactions to her pipe smoking.

She smokes a plain, small pipe with a filter.

NEW ZEALAND SPRING LAMB

Margaret 'a New Woman'

LONDON—Nearly everyone agrees Princess Margaret is hoping her second child, expected in late April, will be a baby girl on whom she can lavish her feminine flair for fashion and pretty things.

Her friends said Margaret's spirits soared when she first became a mother Nov. 3, 1961. Her young son is David, Viscount Linley.

* * *

Margaret's friends say now she hopes dearly for a girl, who she refers to now as "Pinkie Ponkie," a childhood nickname.

Admired by many as Britain's most vivacious and mischievous princess, Margaret pleasantly shocked the country in 1960 when she married society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones of Chelsea, London's Bohemia.

* * *

A year ago this month Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, spent a vacation in the Swiss Alps. It was Margaret's first skiing holiday. She loves doing new things—a "get-up-and-go" girl as a friend described her.

She usually does what she wants, which earned her the reputation as the "little rebel" of the Royal Family. When she announced her pregnancy in December she said she would not cancel all her public engagements—as is the royal custom—and she didn't.

Margaret grew up with "big sister" Queen Elizabeth. They were very close, but when Elizabeth ascended the throne and Margaret became a princess, their royal duties hampered their companionship.

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

First Things

Money and Planning For European Trip

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP)—Money and advance planning are the first things you need for a European trip. After that it's easy.

To get to Europe in June you should begin making plans in November. Canadians are swarming to England and the Continent in increasing numbers each summer and this makes booking passage uncertain after the first of the year.

Donald Barr of University Tours Limited, a Toronto travel agency, adds that while the summer season is the busiest, agencies have almost no slack season nowadays. Canadians are seeing the world all year round.

Overseas travel has been rising steadily since 1957. The most recent Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures, for 1961, show about 275,000 Canadians returning from all directions across the seas. That was twice as many as in 1957 and the number has gone up since then.

If you decide it's time to collect your own colored slides of the United Kingdom and Europe, you can get a basic round-trip air excursion ticket for about $340. Steamships are a little higher. Mr. Barr says a motor coach trip in England and Scotland can be managed on about $12.50 a day. There is also the price of a ticket from home to the departure point and return, and the cost of gifts.

A passport comes from the department of external affairs in Ottawa. The application form may be picked up at a post office, a travel agency or the passport office at external affairs. It should be filled several weeks before the passport will be needed.

Application instructions with the form are simple. The pictures can be taken by any photographer provided directions are followed. A native-born Canadian needs no proof of birth but does require the signature of a guarantor. A naturalized citizen needs only his citizenship certificate. There's a $5 fee.

A Canadian who wants to find a job overseas should apply to the high commission or embassy of the country for a working permit.

All you need in the way of shots is a smallpox vaccination and a certificate from the doctor. That's required by the Canadian government before you can re-enter Canada.

Money can be organized ahead of time through a bank or travel agent. Travellers' cheques are the most sensible but it's a good idea to buy small amounts of local currency in advance for food and fares.

Experts often suggest taking a guided tour on a first trip. But if you prefer to go it alone, hotel, travel and theatre reservations can be booked in advance.

Guard on 'Prowl' Duty Saw Man Flee Prison

A guard who went on "prowl" duty at the Wilkinson Road jail just after dark Feb. 28 said in Saanich magistrate's court yesterday he saw a man run from the jail, but was not able to catch him.

He was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Frank Robert Carlow on a charge of escaping legal custody.

PRISON CLOTHING

Donald Sauter, a guard at the jail, known officially as the Vancouver Island branch of the Oakalla Prison Farm, said he did not recognize the man, but began to chase him when he noticed he was wearing prison clothing.

"I tried to cut him off, but fell in the darkness. I called to him twice to stop, but he just ran faster," said Mr. Sauter.

"Then I ran back to the jail to turn in the alarm."

TOLD COURT

Another guard, Ernest J. Smith, told the court he ordered a formal count as soon as the incident was reported. He said Richard Rodrigues and Carlow did not show up for the count.

Saanich Det.-Sgt. Joseph Armstrong said Carlow appeared at his home at 8:45 a.m. the next day in company with others, and gave himself up.

The hearing was adjourned to 2:30 p.m. Monday, when another guard will be called to give evidence.

Also in court was Leslie Hurlburt, who was released Monday after serving the last six weeks of a six-month Oakalla sentence imposed last fall for possession of burglary tools.

Hurlburt had said earlier he corroborated Carlow's statements about conditions at the jail.

Bootlegger Jailed Fined $300

A six-month jail sentence and a $300 fine were levied in city magistrate's court yesterday on a man convicted on two counts of selling liquor illegally.

George C. Thomas was convicted Jan. 29 of selling liquor to a plainclothes policeman at the Island Taxi stand, 1414 Broad, Nov. 9 and 10. He was fined $300 on the first count and sentenced to six months at hard labor on the second.

He had previously been convicted on a similar charge in September, 1961.

Four Cars Damaged In Parkade

A motorist started a chain reaction in the Hudson's Bay Parkade yesterday which led to four cars being damaged.

Police said Claude Mackenzie, 3130 Uplands, was attempting to back out of a parking bay when he struck a car driven by Leonard Platts, 2860 Estevan.

Platts' car was shoved over a divider, and hit a car owned by Jane E. Gordon, 871 Somenos, which in turn struck another owned by Evelyn Bellam, 6445 Gliddon. No one was hurt.

Truck Theft Ends With Two Injured

A high-speed chase through Victoria and Oak Bay which ended with two juveniles suffering police charges and broken bones unfolded like this on police reports early yesterday:

- 2:08 a.m.—A Linden Avenue resident called police to report a pickup truck driven at high speeds over curbs and causing damage to boulevards.
- 2:10 a.m.—Truck seen entering Oak Bay territory.
- 2:12 a.m.—Truck seen going north on Beach Drive at a high rate of speed chased by police.
- 2:13 a.m.—Oak Bay police report truck over the bank at 1239 Beach.

A juvenile was arrested by police after three warning shots were fired as he tried to run from the scene. He was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital with a broken arm a short time later.

Shortly after 4:30 a.m. another juvenile was heard calling for help from the vicinity of where the car went over the bank. He was admitted to hospital with a possible broken hip.

The truck, which landed on the beach about 50 feet from the road, was demolished. It had been stolen a short time earlier.

Vandals in Car Lots Run Up $880 Bill

Vandals caused about $880 damage in two car lots overnight Monday, police said yesterday.

A dozen cars were damaged at Pacific Chrysler, 1061 Yates, where vandals broke antennas, tore off windshield wiper blades, and ripped open the top of a convertible, causing $800 damage. Damage was $80 at Morrison Motors, 900 Yates, where antennas were torn off several cars.

Extradition Warrant

Fraud Suspect In California?

VANCOUVER (CP) — An extradition warrant has been issued for a city man for alleged fraud in connection with a $1,300,000 federal government defence contract.

The charges allege he obtained payments from the federal government totalling more than $700,000, on behalf of the company, by false pretences.

Magistrate Gordon Scott, who issued the warrant Monday, was told the false pretences were alleged to consist of statements that all debts on the contract had been paid in full, when actually there were large debts outstanding.

The statements were said to have been made in order to get progress payments.

Necklace Cash Stolen

The purse, containing a gold necklace set with a black diamond, was the property of Mrs. James McBride of Comox.

The $48 was taken from two wallets, the property of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown, as they slept at the motel. No address was known for Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

Thieves ransacked the principal's office at Victoria West School over the weekend, but stole only a small starting pistol. Police said they entered through a broken window.

Liquor Prices Up in Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — The price of some brands of Canadian liquor rose five to 15 cents a bottle in Alberta Monday.

Chicken Noodle — Campbell's most popular chicken soup: chunks of tender chicken in a broth seasoned to perfection, and oh those noodles — firm and succulent.

A special message from Campbell to Chicken Noodle fans:

Then Campbell adds plump pieces

The rice is the long grain kind — more expensive, but fluffier.

Tender chicken, rice, tomatoes and fresh vegetables all go into Chicken Gumbo. But it's okra, a flavourful, sunny south vegetable, that gives this soup its delightful spiciness.

Chicken Vegetable is a substantial soup. So nice to come home to on March days that come in like a lion.

cream, seasoned with onions, celery and savoury spices. A luxurious soup.

It's a versatile sauce as well; does marvellous things for vegetables, gravies, and the common casserole.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

In case you were wondering why Steve Allen's show is no longer on Channels 6 and 8, it is simply because the CTV people don't think the show is good enough to keep.

That was the word yesterday from a CHAN-TV spokesman in Vancouver, who explained the Allen show was originally obtained on a 26-week trial period (which ended last week) with the option of signing for another 26 weeks.

"Frankly, the show started out great," the official said. "But lately it was deteriorating. Allen himself must realize this, because he has hired a new producer to try and pull it up.

"Oh, oh! Cold coming on!"

"It was a case of renewing for 26 weeks and gambling the show would get better, or waiting and watching until the fall and taking it on again then if it got better. We decided to wait."

That's the reasoning behind it, but I can't help but wonder just how bad they figured the Allen show had become.

Is it worse than Follow the Sun, Hawaiian Eye or old movies, which is the fare we're getting in its place? I doubt it.

In recent weeks I can recall seeing the Mills Brothers, Lionel Hampton, good standup comedians and excellent if relatively unknown singers. And there is always Allen himself, still multi-talented and entertaining.

I can't help but think that come 11:30 p.m., a lot of viewers will be skipping Canadian television and switching to Channel 7 and a date with Steverino.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Audacious card play tends to succeed better when the company is of a high standard. On today's hand, declarer had the choice of resting on his laurels or gilding the lily. Since it was an expert game, he should probably have been adventurous.

Vul: None

NORTH (D)
♠ K 3 2
♡ A Q 2
♢ 8 7 5
♣ A K J 9

WEST

SOUTH
♠ J 9 6
♡ 10 7 4
♢ A K 10
♣ 8 7 4 3

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♣	Pass	1 N.T.	Pass
3 N.T.	All Pass

Opening lead: Diamond three

South was minimum for his one no trump response, since after a one club opening this suggests about 8 to 10 points. He might better have responded one diamond despite the three-card suit. Holding 17 points himself, North went immediately to the no trump game. The contract was a poor one even though the combined hands held 25 points.

Declarer won the diamond opening, finessed clubs immediately and played out the suit. He needed a spade trick, but was reluctant to expend his remaining diamond stop to get back to his hand; this entry would be needed later to attempt the heart finesse.

So, instead of entering the closed hand to lead up to the spade king, he boldly laid down that card from dummy and he was not especially surprised when it won the trick. West figured declarer for a spade suit headed by the queen and jack, and he thought it might pay to hold off. Having thus snatched the spade trick, declarer abandoned that suit and later took the heart finesse. When that lost, he was defeated, but he was nevertheless pleased with his spade play. "I couldn't make the ninth trick," he announced.

"Wanna bet?" asked North. "Your play of the spade king was good, but what do you think happens if you continue with a second spade to the jack? They both duck again!"

North was right. Once West had ducked the first trick, he intended to duck the second as well. In theory, East could have risen with the spade queen on the second round, but in practice even an expert would probably have missed that play.

A former New Orleans chemical company president-manager, now a distinguished clergyman, Dean Julian Bartlett of Grace Cathedral in San Francisco will conduct Holy Week noonday services at Christ Church Cathedral in Victoria.

Dean Bartlett was ordained in 1948 and has been dean of the San Francisco cathedral since 1956. Before 1948 he headed the New Orleans company.

He has been a member of the general convention of the Episcopal Church from the diocese of Washington, D.C., a member of the standing committee of the diocese of California, and chairman of the executive committee for the foreign mission work.

Greek-Cypriot Says Turks Slew Elderly

First-hand reports of the recent outbreaks of violence in Paphos, one of the trouble-torn cities of Cyprus, have come to Greek Cypriot-born Stanley Morisse, 68-year-old Victoria tailor.

Mr. Morisse, who has lived in Victoria since 1928, has relatives on the troubled island, where outside forces from Canada and Britain are trying to keep peace between Greeks and Turks.

Last week Mr. Morisse charged that newspaper reports in Canada and the U.S. had been misleading in giving only the Turkish side of the Cyprus story.

Last night he translated a letter from his cousin Lefteris Saparillas, a teacher at the Technical School of Limassol, who was in Paphos when violence broke out.

NO DIFFERENCE

"As far as heroism and self-sacrifice is concerned," Mr. Morisse read, "there is no difference between here and Limassol — except that we had many dead and wounded on our side.

"The Turks had planned to attack the Greeks and kill them off within the market place. The attack took place and the results were horrible.

"Old men, women and students were massacred and 200 to 300 hostages were taken.

"Men and women were found in the streets in pieces and their faces were unrecognizable.

UN VISITORS

"After the attack the minister for the interior and representatives of the UN and U.S. visited the scene.

"Immediately after their visit the fighting was resumed. However this time the Turks were not to have as much success. At this moment they are completely isolated and are willing to surrender their arms."

Jewish Witness Twice Fled Gestapo Guns

BRAUNSCHWEIG, Germany (UPI) — A small soft-spoken printer from Israel yesterday told a West German war crimes court how he twice escaped execution by Gestapo firing squads, once by playing dead and again by bribing an SS officer.

Arie Leib Dolinko was the first Jewish witness to testify at the trial of five former Nazi SS cavalry officers accused of directing the "Pinsk massacre" of 5,200 Russian Jews in 1941.

ONE OF THREE

The trial here is one of three under way in West Germany involving Nazi war crimes. The others were in recess yesterday —the trial of 21 ex-Nazi officials and a turncoat inmate on charges of taking part in the murder of up to 4,000,000 people at Auschwitz and the trial of ex-Nazi official Dr. Hans Hefelmann in the so-called "mercy killings" of 73,000 physically and mentally-handicapped persons.

The middle-aged Dolinko told the court how he and thousands of other Jews made the "death march" from the Pinsk railroad station to execution grounds outside the city Aug. 5, 1941.

"We were at the ditch . . . they were shooting. I ran as fast as I could. Suddenly there was an SS horseman behind me. He fired. I was hit and fell.

"He must have thought I was dead. He rode away and let me lie there. I jumped up and ran."

Dolinko said the SS grabbed him again, this time with his wife, when they wiped out the Pinsk ghetto in October of 1942. He said his wife had given up hope as they were "taking off our clothes, as ordered, at the edge of the shooting ditch."

But I told an SS officer I had gold hidden in Pinsk. He ordered us marched back to town. I found them some gold. They let us slip away."

Committee Fights To Save Horses

A fight to save B.C.'s dwindling numbers of wild horses is currently being staged at federal level by the Committee for the Preservation of Wild Horses in Canada.

Last night the committee's B.C. representative Miss Norma Bearcroft of Richmond said the committee was hoping the public could be aroused into supporting the fight.

BUY FILM

"Our committee would like to buy any film taken recently in B.C. showing these animals," she said. "The only way we can arouse public sympathy is by letting them see pictures of these horses—and the way they are cruelly shot and hunted."

MUSTANG CLUB

"The last remaining herds of wild horses in the province are in the interior mountains. The present provincial government policy is designed to eliminate these horses by a system of bounties. We want these bounties taken off—and the horses protected."

The committee members are all members of the International Mustang Club, which has saved wild horses from extinction in parts of the U.S.

Inquiry Told

Coffin Witness, Not Accomplice

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—A former policeman told an inquiry commission Tuesday that Wilbert Coffin may have known "something" about the murders of three American hunters in the Quebec's Gaspe Peninsula 11 years ago without necessarily being an accomplice.

Henri Doyon, 54, a former provincial police officer, was chief researcher for Montreal author Jacques Hebert's best-selling book which sparked the inquiry into the 1956 hanging of Coffin for the murder of one of the hunters.

RAILROADED

Hebert contended that Coffin was railroaded to the gallows as a scapegoat to appease Americans outraged by the slaying of the three Hollidaysburg, Pa., natives.

Their bodies, mangled by wolves, were found in the remote bush country in 1953 several days after they disappeared on a hunting expedition. Coffin was convicted and executed three years later.

COULD BE WITNESS

Doyon was cross-examined by Hebert himself at yesterday's hearing. He said Coffin might have known what happened to the three hunters but that "someone could be a witness to a crime without actually knowing that a crime was taking place."

Today, Doyon elaborated on a statement he made last week when he said he thought Coffin's brother, Donald, could have been implicated in the death of the three hunters. He said that at the beginning of the investigation he suspected Donald but that he soon changed his mind.

ISSUED THREAT

Doyon based this suspicion on the testimony of a man identified as Vincent Patterson. He said Patterson recalled that Donald Coffin had said once that if Americans ever came to the area where he had his mining claims he would use his rifle to chase them out.

Earlier, under cross-examination from crown prosecutor Jean Grenier, Doyon denied that Wilbert Coffin had been interrogated, as alleged in Hebert's book, with a 500-watt bulb shining in his face.

Garden Notes

Mop Heads Included

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I had a note the other day from Mrs. B. A. Setchell, the secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Gladiolus Society, with some news of interest to Victoria gardeners.

She tells me that in last year's gladiolus show, the society introduced a few classes for dahlias, and there was so much interest and so many entries that the society has taken steps to change its name legally to The Victoria Gladiolus and Dahlia Society. Dahlia buffs will now have an organization to speak for them in local horticultural affairs.

* * *

Green Woodpecker is a Dutch gladiolus, deep lemon green with a wine-colored blotch, and it falls between the early and the mid-season bloomers—better figure on about 80 days of growth to have good blooms for August 7. The bulbs are not expensive, running 12 cents to 18 cents each, or about $1.25 per dozen.

If I were going after the prize for the best All-America gladiolus bloom, I think I would plump for Landmark, as this Canadian glad is always an outstanding performer in my garden. A rich cream color, it makes a spike as thick as your thumb, sometimes with as many as 22 buds, of which I have had 12 open at one time. The florets are huge and of a lovely suede-like texture. Bulbs of the All-America glads, including Landmark, are always packaged in plastic netting bags bearing the AAG label, and sell for 35 cents each or three for $1.

* * *

In this year's combined gladiolus and dahlia show, quite a few dahlia classes will be opened, including one competition for the best Gerry Hoek dahlia bloom. Sounds like a grand idea to me, for Gerry Hoek has long been a favorite of mine in the formal decorative class. It isn't the biggest dahlia in the world, by any means, but for my money it is much more attractive as a cut flower than any of the mop-headed monsters. The plant stands about five feet tall, very free blooming in the clearest, cleanest shade of pink. The tubers are listed at 75 cents in one of my catalogues, 89 cents in another.

This year's show, which is to be held on Aug. 7 and 8 will feature several new gladiolus classes too. One will be for the best "Green Woodpecker" glad, and one for the best All-America bloom.

I hope the newly-named Victoria Gladiolus and Dahlia Society will develop some public interest in the ball and pompom dahlias. These are grand flowers, making perfectly round balls two to three inches across, particularly useful in floral arrangements. In the pompoms I like Morning Mist, a blush mauve; Little Prince, a red and white bicolor; Alice, clear scarlet; Mary Munns, lavender purple and Yellow Baby, a brilliantly clear yellow.

* * *

In the ball dahlias—a bit bigger round than the pompoms—I can recommend Newmiller, yellow with white tips; Mrs. Wellstead, white with lavender tips, and Anneke Weidner, blue mauve with a white base and extra long stems. Tubers of both balls and pompoms run around 40 cents to 50 cents each.

I understand that most classes in the August show will be open; that is, you don't have to be a member of the society to enter your glads or dahlias for competition.

It's War Between Dallas and Belli

'Evil, Rotten, Stinking Town'

By PETER WORTHINGTON

DALLAS (TNS)—The Jack Ruby trial is over, but the legal battle is only beginning.

Now post-mortems are beginning in this trial-turned-circus of the century. Outsiders are calling the city "Dallas the damned," for the almost indecent speed (2½ hours) with which the jury sentenced Ruby to the electric chair.

* * *

Ruby's reaction was couched in macabre words: "Take my clothes and burn them. Don't let them put them in a wax museum."

Even Judge Joe B. Brown and District Attorney Henry Wade hadn't expected death.

But it isn't over yet. Belli has his knives out for Dallas—and Dallas is out after him. He's abusing the judge to anyone who will listen, and calls the DA a hog-caller to whom the jury responds.

* * *

Claiming Ruby will be killed in jail, Belli raged that "Dallas doesn't want Ruby around because they know our appeal will go through."

Belli says there are 30 exceptions of law in trial, any one of which could throw out the verdict and bring a new trial or amended sentence.

"I've watched this trial and I've seen Judge Brown ignore all the legal arguments. He has seldom opened a law book, and invariably takes his cues from the district attorney.

* * *

"The trial disintegrated into a fiasco largely because of Judge Brown. With only three years of night school as his academic background before he started winning elections, Judge Brown lost control of the case from the first day.

"He literally has fought through mobs to get on television, and cracked that his bench is the best seat in court from where to watch girls.

"In Dallas he's called Judge Necessity — 'Because necessity knows no law'."

* * *

Belli's finely honed legal mind was wasted in Dallas. And Belli, reeling from a slapped ego as well as being affronted by Texas justice, admitted: "Any second-year law student could have gotten Ruby off with a life sentence by begging for mercy. We didn't beg. We had a legal case; I made the mistake of arguing the law in Dallas.

"I shall never return here; it's an evil, bigoted, rotten, stinking town.

"They wanted Ruby to grovel, to say 'I'm a Jew and you're the master race and I'm so sorry," roared Belli.

* * *

"I want to go to New York, stand in Times Square, and see some Jews walk by, Puerto Ricans, Dagos, Niggers, white people, and say, 'Thank Christ I'm back in America.' They are free men."

He said he thought the case had a good chance in the appellate courts.

"They're going to chastise this kangaroo-pouch judge (Brown) who sat on this case. He didn't walk to the bench — he hopped."

But Dallas is pleased—if surprised—at the verdict. It's just a trifle uneasy at the haste in which it was reached.

* * *

Why does Dallas revel in the verdict?

A psychologist might have an answer. It's as if Ruby has been substituted for Oswald. By killing Ruby, President Kennedy will be avenged and Dallas vindicated.

It's surprising how reluctant citizens are to discuss Kennedy. He's been blotted from minds; he's something no one talks about. With Ruby gone an embarrassing part of Dallas history can be forever forgotten.

June's Ambition Gone

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — June Allyson's income from the Dick Powell estate adds up to $8,500 a month. Which could explain why June rarely comes to Hollywood these days from her home at Newport Beach, Calif., where she lives with her husband Glenn Maxwell. She will do an occasional TV show for Dick's company, Four Star, but the old ambition disappeared a long time ago. Four Star is perking up after a bad year.

* * *

No wonder Elke Sommer bought off her European commitments. Her financial progression to the heights in the past year has been remarkable. For The Prize, Elke was paid $60,000. For her three-picture deal at Metro, Elke will receive $100,000 per picture. For The Unknown Battle in Norway, her stipend is $150,000. And if she signs a three-picture contract at Universal, and they want her madly, Elke will get $600,000 for the lot. Not at all bad for a girl who was a mother's help in England five years ago for a few dollars a week.

* * *

Ann-Margret will play a married woman who is after all the boys in the new William Inge screen original, tentatively titled All Kinds of People. One of the boys, Michael Parks, has a big future according to the Universal bosses. He is now starring for them in Daffy. Michael has had enough tragedy for his young years. His wife of six weeks accidentally killed herself with an overdose of sleeping pills.

Liz-Burton Marriage Box-Office Success

Prior to their marriage in Montreal Sunday, ticket sales for Hamlet had dropped off.

But Monday night almost $3,000 was taken in at the box-office of the O'Keefe Centre between 7 and 8:30 p.m.

To service the line-up, the curtain was delayed 10 minutes.

Following his performance of the title role, Mr. Burton stilled the audience's applause and said: "I don't usually make curtain speeches, but you were a marvellous audience and I want to thank you."

Then quoting Hamlet's speech to Ophelia in Act III, Scene I, he said: "I say, we will have no more marriages."

The audience of 2,900 broke into laughter and applause.

The couple plan to have another wedding, a Jewish ceremony, when they are established in New York. Miss Taylor embraced the Jewish faith prior to her third marriage, to Mike Todd.

ART BUCHWALD Analyzes Primary

Goldfeller Should've Stood in Bed

WASHINGTON — The primary results in New Hampshire still have Washington pundits scratching their heads. Henry Cabot Lodge, whose campaign slogan was "If I am elected I will return to the United States," defeated Sen. Barry Goldwater, who ran on a ticket of "I'd rather be far right than president," and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, who found out not only that you can't take it with you — you can't even use it to win a little primary in New Hampshire.

* * *

We happened to sit in on a conference for Barry Nelson Goldfeller yesterday and some of the best political minds in the U.S. were discussing their strategy for future primaries.

"Okay," the campaign chairman said, "nobody would listen to me, would they? I told you we couldn't let our man go into New Hampshire, but you were all against me. You said, 'Once the voters see Goldfeller, they can't help but be impressed.' Do you realize that before Goldfeller went to New Hampshire we had 45 per cent of the vote and when he left we had two per cent?"

* * *

"You're right, boss," the public relations man admitted., "We miscalculated, but it wasn't all our fault. How did we know Goldfeller would tell the people where he stood?"

"All he said he wanted to do was to go there and shake hands," an adviser added.

Another adviser said, "I still think his big mistake was saying we should drop the atom bomb on Canada if they persisted in importing cigars from Cuba."

* * *

The treasurer said, "That wasn't half as bad as his promise to close all the public schools and turn them over to private enterprise."

The public relations man said, "The thing that really did it in my book was when he vowed that if he was elected he would send all unemployed people to jail."

* * *

The chairman held his head in his hands. "Even that was better than his promise to put a tax on poor people so they would have to pay their own relief benefits."

The public relations man asked, "Why did he come out against milk for school children?"

"He said pasteurization came from France, and everyone knew that France had a socialist government."

"He also said he was against the Salk vaccine because people in the United States should be free to choose if they wanted to have polio or not."

* * *

The chairman said, "Let's forget what he said and think about the Oregon primary."

"There is only one thing we have to decide on," the public relations man said.

"What's that?"

"When we enter the Oregon primary, how do we keep him from going there?"

Hurrahs Hail Pension Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — With loud hurrahs from the Liberal back benches, the government brought its top-priority legislation—the Canada Pension Plan—into the Commons Tuesday.

The initial reception: The former Conservative health minister J. Waldo Monteith, said his party is behind a plan of this sort—"there are no ifs and buts about it." The NDP also supported it in general.

Judy LaMarsh, his Liberal successor, piloted the scheme into the House with a speech at the resolution stage—preceding the actual bill—and a government white paper that outlined details, most of them announced last January by Prime Minister Pearson.

The resolution was passed at the end of the night sitting and the bill immediately received first sitting. Debate will resume next week.

ALL STAGES

If legislation is passed through all stages by both houses of Parliament, the plan would go into operation next year.

Collections would start in January, 1965.

Contributions would be compulsory for most employees, voluntary for the self-employed.

At the outset, the contribution rate would be two per cent of the first $4,500 a year in earnings. Employers and employees would share this—one per cent each. The self-employed would pay the whole two per cent.

MONTEITH

The two-per-cent contribution rate would be fixed at that level for the first 15 years. Over the following 35 years, it could be increased in steps of one-quarter of one per cent to a peak of four per cent in the year 2015. Any of these increases could be deferred if they proved to be unnecessary, financially

Benefits would first be paid in January, 1966. But it would take until 1975 for them to reach their full level.

The benefits take these two forms—though both would arrive on the same cheque:

First, the present universal old-age pension of $75 monthly if claimed at age 70—the age at which it now is paid. This would be reduced if claimed before that age. The reduction is 40 cents a month for every month between the time a person claims it, after reaching 65, and his 70th birthday. Thus if it was claimed at age 65 the reduction would be 40 cents a month for 60 months or $24, leaving that portion of the benefit at $51 a month for life.

Second, the earnings-related benefit would be 20 per cent of the contributor's average annual lifetime earnings up to the earnings limit—initially $4,500. This is payable either at age 70 without strings attached, or any time between 65 and 69 on retirement. Hence that portion of the pension would be $75 a month for life for anyone whose salary has been at the earnings limit.

AT 65

A person retiring at age 65 could get a maximum earnings-related pension of $75, if his earnings have always been up to the pension-plan limit, plus another $51 in the form of the reduced flat-rate universal old age pension, which is financed from tax revenues. Total: $126.

Saskatchewan Sums Up

Medicare Cost Below Guess

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan's compulsory universal medical care insurance plan cost less in its first full year of operation than a study committee estimated it would, the plan's annual report says.

The 1963 report of the Medical Care Insurance Commission, which administers the plan, was tabled in the legislature Tuesday.

"Because . . . it is the first full calendar year of operation . . . 1963 assumes importance as the baseline year for a program new to Saskatchewan and unique in North America," the report says.

"Against it will be measured earlier estimates and later experience."

The Saskatchewan plan, which with a few exceptions covers all residents of the province, is the first state - run compulsory medical care insurance program in North America. It was implemented in July 1962, over opposition from much of the medical profession.

The annual report says the cost to the Medical Care Commission in 1963 for insured doctors' services totalled about $19,500,000. About 886,400 persons—95 per cent of the province's population — were covered.

COST $22.05 EACH

Thus the average cost of insured services per beneficiary was about $22.05.

The report notes that in 1961, the government - appointed Thompson advisory planning committee on medical care estimated that the cost per beneficiary of services under a medical care insurance scheme similar to that actually put into operation in 1962 would be between $22.39 and $23.06.

Oil Kills Millions of Clams

OLYMPIA (AP) — A grounded fuel barge has been pulled free off the Washington coast north of Aberdeen, leaving behind devastation in the heart of the state's famous clam beds.

The state fisheries department said tens of thousands of pounds of razor clams—along with other sea life—have been killed in a wide area contaminated with oil and gas from the barge.

Department officials, calling it a "major marine disaster," immediately closed the commercal clam digging season in a 10-mile stretch.

★ ★ ★

Assistant director J. E. Lasater, who toured the area Tuesday, said other closures may be ordered soon. He said the kill was spreading south.

"It looks like total devastation of a considerable area," he said. "There are areas where dead and dying razor clams are so thick you can't walk without stepping on them."

Lasater said he also found smaller numbers of dead crabs, perch, tom cod and other fish, birds, small beach snails, sea worms and other forms of beach life.

Fisheries biologists were trying late Tuesday to determine the extent of the loss. Officials had estimated a kill of 32,000 pounds already through Sunday.

The 10-mile stretch where the commercial closure was ordered is in the heart of about 100 miles of ocean beaches packed with razor clams, Lasater said.

Nearly 14,000,000 clams were taken in the state last year.

It was not immediately determined how many gallons of gas and oil poured onto the beach areas from the barge.

The Aberdeen World said it learned 500,000 gallons of diesel oil were discharged into the sea late Monday night to lighten the barge so it could be pulled free at high tide.

The World said another 750,000 gallons of gasoline had leaked from the damaged vessel since it went aground last Wednesday.

Archives Sure For City

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa agreed Tuesday to modifications asked by four provinces, including British Columbia, in the original Pearson plan to have a string of new performing arts centres built across Canada for the 1967 centennial celebrations.

An agreement will probably be signed in two weeks which will assure a new archives building in Victoria.

Trustee Office Phones Tapped

OTTAWA (UPI) — Labor Minister MacEachen confirmed Tuesday attempts have been made to wire-tap a telephone line in the Montreal headquarters of the Canadian maritime trusteeship.

MacEachen told the Commons there was evidence that wires were attached to one telephone line in the trustees' downtown offices that "with suitable equipment could be used to monitor" conversations.

SUCCESS NOT PROVED

The labor minister also said investigation to date has failed to prove whether any wire taps were successful in listening to conversations. He also said he knew of no evidence available, at present, indicating who was responsible.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America, said Tuesday he fully supports Canadian SIU chief Hal Banks and would oppose any action to remove Banks from his job.

SECRET PACT?

Hall was commenting on a Toronto newspaper report a secret Canada-U.S. agreement had been reached to guarantee labor peace on the Great Lakes and that Banks would be removed from his job in three weeks.

"There is obviously no truth in this story," Hall said.

McCutcheon

OTTAWA (CP) — Promoters of the proposed Bank of Western Canada were accused in the Senate Tuesday night of contempt of Parliament over news reports that shares in the enterprise were being sold before parliamentary incorporation.

The accusation was made by Senator A. J. Brooks, opposition leader in the upper chamber. Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon (PC, Ontario) said the system being employed to reserve shares in the enterprise places Parliament in the position of possibly being responsible for financial losses to subscribers.

$18 BIDS

Senator Brooks complained on a question of privilege that the Toronto Globe and Mail reported Tuesday shares in the western bank were being offered to the public at $15 each and bids were being made at $18 a share.

He called on sponsors of the bill in Parliament to explain how shares could be sold before

Peru Patrol

Savages, Snakes Get Four

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—A well-armed 40-man relief column is nearing a 65-man patrol besieged for six days in the "green hell" of the Amazon by 1,000 savage Indians, the government said yesterday.

The patrol has suffered at least four dead and six injured since last Friday in repeated sneak attacks by the poisoned arrow-firing savages.

Last reports received here said jungle jaguars and deadly snakes were contributing to the discomfort of the besieged patrol.

$18,558,986 Approved

The legislature took only 18 minutes last night to approve the $18,558,986 total estimates of the department of lands, forests and water resources, after spending nearly 10 hours on a $25,372 vote on the minister's salary.

But the eyes of 51 legislators, a dozen members of the legislative press gallery and sundry legislative officials focus on a garrulous, elf-like figure who occupies a desk in the ranks of the official opposition.

He is 56-year-old Leo Thomas Nimsick, the New Democratic Party member for Cranbrook and a resident of Kimberley.

As he rises from his seat during the waning days of debate hopes for an early end to the session plummet.

When he sits down they rise.

Cyprus Quiet

More Canadians Arrive

NICOSIA (AP)—More Canadian soldiers flew into Cyprus Tuesday as the van of a United Nations peace force, easing renewed fears that Turkey might create an explosive crisis by landing troops on this angry island. (See also Pages 5, 24.)

The total 1,150 men Canada is sending to Cyprus is expected to be here by the end of this week. A Canadian officer said it will be a few days before the Canadian contingent undertakes any duties in the republic.

Meanwhile, the guns of the rival Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot communities remained silent, although the issues that divide them still blaze.

In Athens, a Greek government source said that with the buildup of the UN peace force, there was no cause for immediate concern.

He was referring to the fact that Turkey's parliament Monday gave Premier Ismet Inonu full powers to take action in the Cyprus crisis.

Claw Killers Busy Again

DAR ES SALAAM (AP)—The lionmen of Singida, who kill and scar their victims with claws, are reported active again. The regional commissioner of Singida, in central Tanganyika, appealed to the public for co-operation in stamping out the cult, which springs up every few years in the district.

Sympathy for Hunger Strikers

Negroes Out of Control?

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A civil rights leader has raised the prospect of "uncontrolled demonstrations" in sympathy with a weary contingent of hunger strikers in the gallery of Kentucky's State House.

ACTING LEADER

The statement was made Tuesday by Negro lawyer Harry McAlpin of Louisville, acting chairman of the Allied Organizations for Civil Rights and a member of the state board of education.

"The dignity and public image of Kentucky is seriously at stake," McAlpin said. "Uncontrolled demonstrations may be triggered by the state general assembly's refusal to act on public accommodations."

He said what began at noon Monday as a strong protest by 17 Negroes and six whites could escalate into protests throughout the state.

The group arrived from Louisville and vowed to sit in the House of Representatives and starve until the legislature acts on a civil rights measure now or in a special session. The regular session ends Friday.

BOTTLED UP

Bills which would grant Negroes equal access to public businesses have been bottled up in House and Senate rules committees.

Legislators, who at first reacted with humor and amusement, seemed a bit concerned Tuesday for the health of the protestors. But they held to the belief that the demonstration would not affect any legislative plans.

Plane Crashes Into Ocean

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — One U.S. navy jet fighter crashed into the ocean last night after hundreds of persons reported seeing an explosion in the sky, and the U.S. coast guard said the plane apparently collided in flight with a sister aircraft.

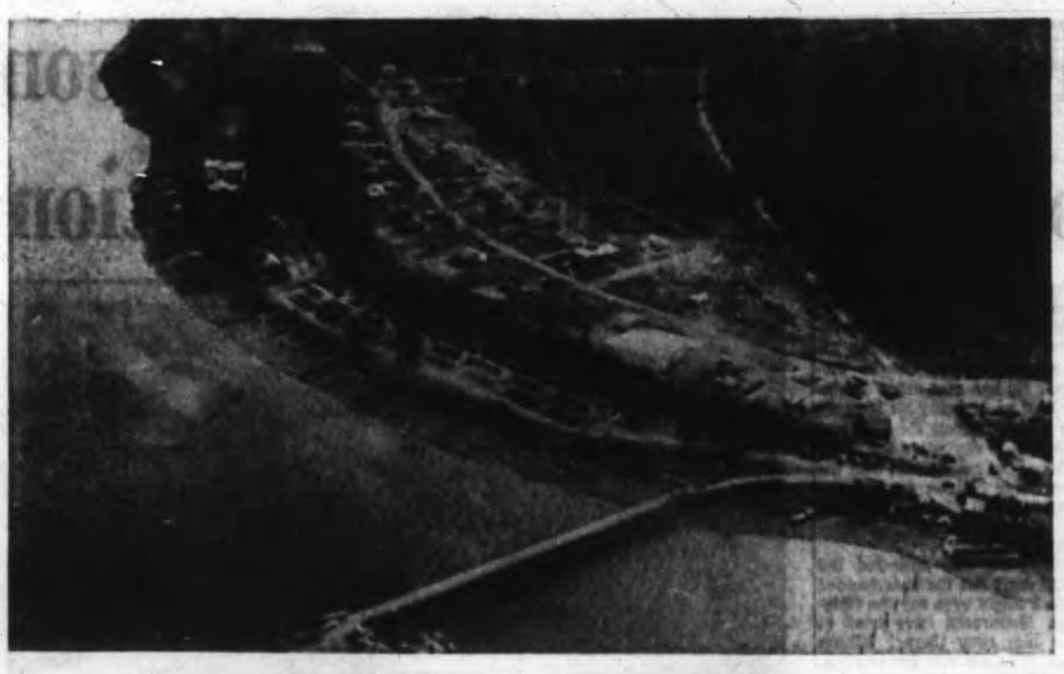

The pilot of one plane ejected and was rescued.

The navy did not immediately confirm any such collision. But the coast guard at Long Beach said a second aircraft was missing and the pilot was being sought.

Mrs. May Warren, 64, 556 Toronto, was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for cuts, bruises and a sore back, and later released, after a car driven by her husband Gordon collided with one driven by Mary E. Terison, 1802 Belmont, at Fort and Cook Sunday afternoon.

Australian Swans On Cowichan Farm

Last year Mrs. Chapman's pair of white royal mutes made headlines when the pen hatched four cynets, all of whom have been sold.

The new arrivals, already acclimatized on the large pond, are three years old and may have their first young ones this spring.

It is believed Vancouver Island has only one other black swan.

Other colorful birds on the farm here are the Chinese Mandarin, Japanese Silkie and Polish Crested Bantams in addition to a number of colored and white peacocks.

Club Plans Regatta For August

Somenos To Study Water Plan

NORTH COWICHAN — Water users in the Somenos District are determined to get a better service and they agreed when they met with North Cowichan council Monday, either to have city water from Duncan or have a $25,000, 30-foot-high water tank and a $1,200 filter system installed.

First, the municipality will gather information on the city water proposal and, if that is not feasible, the installation project will be planned.

COMMITTEE

The Somenos water users formed a committee consisting of H. B. Whitfield, Gerry Butler, Kurt Simons and Dave McMann to deal with the matter.

The VLA will be approached for financial assistance. The users were told the total assessment for the next 10 years per household would be $9.50 per month, but this amount does not include the possibility of 10 new homes in the subdivision there.

North Cowichan council municipal clerk A. Vandecasteyen said the improvements would be financed on an "every lot" basis.

Six Islanders Draw Irish Sweep Horses

Six Vancouver Islanders, four of them in Victoria, have a chance at the $150,000 first prize in the Irish sweepstakes on Saturday's Grand National steeplechase in Aintree, England.

The six were among 336 Canadians named on lucky tickets in the draw completed yesterday. However, the 336 are rooting for a total of 80 horses and less than half of that number is expected to start the race.

ALL ON OUTSIDERS

OTHER TICKETS

The other Island tickets are QES 82899, C. Plewa of Port Alberni, Hoodwinked, and QLP, Poodle of Duncan, Barberyn.

Second sweep prize is $60,000, third prize $30,000 and consolations anywhere from $200 to $1,400. A near-record total of 69 B.C. tickets was drawn, 42 of them from Vancouver or its suburbs.

Drive for Prison Gets MLA Backing

Squire

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni Valley winter works campaign committee's bid for a minimum security prison for this area has received the support of Comox MLA John Squire, NDP, and Attorney-General Bonner has given assurance that it will receive departmental study, according to letters read at the regular meeting.

A letter from Local 1-85 IWA suggested that prisons of this nature would not provide employment for local people. During discussion, National Employment Service special placement officer Jim Speedie said he believed local persons would be given preference. He explained that employees must meet minimum educational standards and have basic qualificaitons for the jobs, and after they have been selected they receive the special training required.

Alberni Valley Project

Mr. Speedie said that it is now known that there are plans for four minimum security and one medium security institutions for Vancouver Island.

The medium security prisons generally accommodate 250 inmates and have staffs consisting of 75 guards and other administrative personnel. The camp-type minimum security setup is for 60 prisoners with 12 to 15 persons on the staff.

SEVERAL PLACES

There are several places in this area where the prisoners could be used to advantage in parks work, he said.

"I can see the IWA's point of view. If the prisoners were to do work which would otherwise be done by union men, there would be no advantage in having them here," he said.

Mr. Speedie said that prisoners assigned to minimum security prisons are not considered "bad risks." As a rule, he said, they are first offenders.

LOWER RATES

The committee agreed to suggest to chartered banks and credit unions that lower rates be established on home improvement loans to cover work to be done during winter months. The federal finance minister will be queried on the matter.

B.C. Tel Shuffles Numbers

Dial C for Change

By JACK FRY

B.C. Telephone Company has to change prefixes on some 4,000 telephone numbers to keep pace with Greater Victoria's rapid growth.

A. A. Higinbotham, district manager, said yesterday the number changes will be tied in with construction of a $1,000,000 automatic exchange at Cordova Bay this year.

"This expansion of facilities is necessary to keep pace with business development and residential growth in Greater Victoria and the Saanich Peninsula," he said.

Some 4,000 subscribers whose numbers will be affected by the prefix changes will be notified by the company by letter this week.

Three prefixes will be changed and a fourth prefix will be added to the system.

The EV 6 (or 386) prefix will be changed to 388 for about 1,000 telephones in the 4000 and 5000 number groups. For example, if your number was EV 6-4000, it will become EV 8-4000.

The GR 4 or (474) prefix will be changed to 652 for the Keating exchange, while the Sidney exchange prefix will be changed from GR 5 (or 475) to 656.

The new Cordova Bay exchange will have the prefix 658, when it is built and goes into operation in December, 1964. This office, on Wesley Road near Haliburton, will serve about 850 subscribers now served by the Colquitz office and 50 subscribers from the Keating office.

The EV 6 changeover will take place April 1, although subscribers will be able to dial either EV 6 or EV 8 and get the same party until December when the Cordova Bay office opens and all other prefix changes will become effective.

Cougars Hunted

FULFORD HARBOR—Cougar tracks were reported yesterday on Salt Spring Island, according to sheep rancher Robert Akerman.

Minimum Security Prison

Chamber Won't Back Bid

PORT ALBERNI — The Chamber of Commerce here will not support the local winter works campaign committee in its bid for a minimum security prison for the area.

While no one spoke in favor of the plan, several members aired opinions on why the district should not have such a situation.

50 PER CENT

One man claimed that 50 per cent of the prisoners would remain in the immediate area after discharge, increasing the unemployment. Another claimed that establishment of a prison gave a town the name of having insufficient industry to support its population. Another declared that Bamfield would be a better situation.

President Mrs. Edna Souther, Bill Beckingham and Felix Nicholson will represent the Chamber at the annual meeting of the ACCVI in Duncan on March 23 and 24.

A committee consisting of Al Parker, Miss Irene Scarff and Elmer Speidel was named to choose the Chamber's contestant in the Miss Alberni Valley competition being sponsored by the Junior Chamber.

A joint executive meeting will be held Wednesday evening to discuss the possibility of the Chamber and Alberni Board of Trade amalgamating, Mrs. Souther announced.

Mr. Beckingham said he is of the opinion that before a decision is made on the joining of the two organizations, the chamber should find out whether it can take a firm stand on the matter of amalgamation of the two cities.

Victoria, Burnaby

Land Grants Urged For B.C. Universities

The provincial government should set aside 4,000,000 acres of endowment land for the University of Victoria and Burnaby's Simon Fraser University, says Point Grey MLA Pat McGeer.

The Liberal member suggested in the legislature yesterday "it isn't fair" that the University of B.C. should be the only university to benefit from endowment land in B.C.

The government should set aside 2,000,000 acres of land in the northern part of the province for each of the two new universities.

The universities should have outright ownership of this land and be given the power to manage it, but should never be allowed to sell the land, said Mr. McGeer.

This land might return $2,000,000 a year in stumpage rates for timber and this value would rise in time, he said. It could be "a painless way" of financing operation of the universities.

Mr. McGeer also suggested that the UBC endowment land, which is held by the government, should be deeded back to the university for further development.

Bagged Garbage Plan Studied in Nanaimo

NANAIMO — The use of polyethelene bags in the garbage collection operation will be considered by the garbage committee of Nanaimo's city council.

The manufacturer suggested the use of the bags would prevent the necessity of unsightly garbage cans as "the garbage bag and all can be thrown on the garbage truck." The bags would cost approximately five cents each.

He said the bags could create an ideal situation for dogs who could easily drag them away and would be a hazard as far as children are concerned.

Museum

Village Backing Expected

LAKE COWICHAN—Following the enthusiastic endorsement of Duncan City council which pledged to assist in buying 19 acres of land at the Drinkwater Road and Somenos Lake for the newly-founded Cowichan Forest Museum, chairman of the village commission here, Mrs. M. Child, said "It is my opinion the commission will agree in principle."

Mayor Jack Dobson Monday night told council at Duncan he had met with Mrs. Child and North Cowichan Reeve Donald Morton recently and all three agreed to buy the 19 acres for the museum for $37,000 providing the respective councils give their approval.

MEETING SOON

Mrs. Child said her village council will meet with Cowichan Forest Museum officials in the near future.

A decision on the cost-sharing purchase of the museum land from the North Cowichan municipality is expected today at the afternoon council meeting.

Earlier a museum spokesman said it is hoped to have the valuable Wellburn collection of historical logging equipment transferred to the new site during this summer from its present location at the estate of Gerald Wellburn at Deerholme.

Several weeks ago a news story stating the possibility of the museum being relocated in the Victoria area sparked prompt action from worried residents and civic officials here, and Mr. Wellburn agreed that his collection should remain in the area where logging and lumbering are so predominant.

It is anticipated the big logging industry on Vancouver Island will also assist the museum project financially.

Cowichan Copper

Mine Creditors Will Wait

VANCOUVER (CP) — Creditors of Cowichan Copper Co. Ltd. agreed at a meeting here Tuesday to a proposal of debt deferment to pave the way for new financing to put the mine back into production.

In the proposal, made by O. G. MacDonald, president, it was stated that acceptance would make it possible to obtain a $1,000,000 loan which would be tied to a concentrate-purchasing contract.

The meeting was attended by creditors whose claims totalled $3,498,228.

Acceptance of the proposal by the creditors must receive court approval. When approval is obtained, it is understood the new backers will make surveys at the Cowichan property at Jordan River, northwest of Victoria.

Cowichan's Sunro mine has been out of action since Dec. 6 when the river broke through into a mined-out stope and flooded the workings.

Courtenay Merchants

New Shop Bylaw Opposed

COURTENAY—Members of a large delegation to city council here were united in only one thing: all opposed the projected bylaw amendment governing shopping in Courtenay.

Under the proposed amendment, Courtenay stores would be open for five and a half days, closing Wednesday afternoons, and remaining open for six days during June, July, August and September.

The group, representing the Retail Merchants' Association, included two from building supply firms. One favored closing Saturday afternoon, the other wanted Monday afternoon.

MONDAY CLOSING

The real estate representative wanted to keep the present Monday afternoon closing, although admitting that some firms stayed open Mondays and did much of their business then.

Council heard all spokesmen—then gave first and second reading to the amendment as proposed by Ald. Ken Willis.

Third reading will likely be given April 6 at council meeting, with the possibility of some amendments then.

BRIEF PRESENTED

In further council news a brief was presented on behalf of the B.C. Aeronautics Association, asking the federal government to set up a provincial aeronautics commission.

This commission would use provincial and federal money to build airstrips, and then turn them over to the municipalities to operate. As an example the Campbell River airport was mentioned. City council voted to endorse the brief.

Gulf Islanders Critical Of Ferries, Publicity

Delegates were unhappy about B.C. Ferry Authority plans to institute a reservation system for automobiles on the Queen of the Islands this year, and about a reduction in the number of Gulf Island inserts for publicity distribution.

Chaotic conditions at the wharves were feared with a reservation plan, particularly at Village Bay on Mayne Island, where lack of line-up space already creates traffic snarls.

Inter-island fares were also criticized, as well as the continuing problem of lack of transportation between Salt Spring Island, North and South Pender and Saturna.

New plans call for a reduction to 10,000 of the folders including the Island inserts, while the ferry authority would distribute about 125,000 without the inserts.

Delegates, feeling this would not yield the coverage to which donations by Island businesses and organizations entitled them, moved that the same sum be contributed this year provided at least 50,000 copies were distributed including the Island insert.

Apart from scenery, fishing is the major Island tourist attraction, and the meeting felt that draggers destroyed fish and the food to sustain them.

Traffic Bottlenecks Plaguing Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Traffic safety and traffic bottlenecks continue to be a thorn in the side of Nanaimo city council.

Ald. Jack Parker said "Nanaimo is notorious for people going through stop signs. If it is possible for drivers to slide through them they will slow down and slide."

Wallace and Fitzwilliam, Crace and Nicol, and Stewart and Terminal on the approach to the Pearson Bridge are the intersections giving council the most trouble.

"Traffic in other parts of the city is equally dangerous," said Ald. Parker. "Crosswalks don't guarantee immunity from being knocked down but they certainly help."

Council had earlier considered making Fraser Street, which runs into the Wallace-Fitzwilliam intersection, a one-way street but decided to consider some further action.

DIVERT FLOW

Ald. Parker explained:

"There is quite a bit of traffic at that intersection but making Fraser a one-way street would only push the flow off onto another intersection."

Ald. Ted Barsby asked the traffic and safety committee to discuss the possibility of installing traffic control lights at the intersection of Nicol and Crace streets. He said the intersection becomes dangerous at the time pulp mill workers are travelling to and from work three times a day.

NO REPLY RECEIVED

The situation at the Stewart Avenue side of the Pearson Bridge which is causing traffic bottlenecks has been brought to the attention of the department of highways but no reply has yet been received.

Impairment Dismissed Evidence Criticized

The charge against Joseph Percy Kidder of Nanaimo was laid Dec. 25, 1963, after a two-car collision at Bowen Road and Pryde Street at 2:30 a.m.

Magistrate Beevor-Potts said "I am very much of the opinion that the accused was impaired, but my opinion doesn't count and the evidence does. The statements of the witnesses were contradictory and I am very surprised RCMP did not take notes at the scene of the accident."

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

Once the miracle of electronics had contrived a marriage between prizefighting and closed-circuit television, the million-dollar gate lost all meaning. The financial figures announced after most big fights conjure up a charming picture.

One imagines the parties of the first, second, third, and perhaps fourth parts sitting around a table just as those Hallowe'en characters must have done after the Brinks heist. In front of them are neat stacks of green paper.

"Here we are," the top banana is saying, "one million for you, one million for me, two million for you, two million for me, three million, four — that's enough, shove the loose thousands under the rug."

What was the round figure cheerily announced after those six remarkable rounds in Miami Beach involving Sonny Liston and Cassius Clay? Three million? Four? Five? No matter. On these big theatre-television shows it is always explained that each dollar taken at the box office is split down the middle by the closed-circuit firm handling the fight and the exhibitor showing it on his screen.

In other words, if the coast-to-coast haul is four million dollars, the public understands that two million dollars comes back to the closed-circuit firm to be distributed according to the contract with the promotion, and the exhibitor keeps two million dollars less expenses.

The Jacksonville Story

Well, sir, for the Liston-Clay fight Chris Dundee and Jimmy Murdock had the closed-circuit show in Jacksonville Coliseum, a hall with 8,893 seats. Dundee ran the live promotion for Bill MacDonald, who bought the fight for $625,000 and lost several shirts when it drew about $400,000 in Miami Beach Convention Hall. Murdock is the Jacksonville promoter who worked with Dundee on closed-circuit showings.

Playing to about 50 per cent of capacity, Jacksonville grossed $17,298 at the box office. After Federal and state taxes, the partners sent a check for $8,169, representing 50 per cent of the net, to Theatre Network Television, Inc., the closed-circuit distributor.

Then they counted up expenses. Their projection equipment was rented from TNT for $2,600. On earlier shows the most they had paid was $675 for an RCA projector, but TNT insisted that they use a projector called Eidophor, which is supposed to produce the clearest and most dependable picture. TNT has American rights to Eidophor.

Rent for the hall came to $1,567.66. In these productions the closed-circuit firm leases the long lines from the telephone company to send the signal across the country, and the exhibitor pays for the loop from the local phone exchange into his theatre. This loop cost Dundee and Murdock $550.

Oops, Sorry

Insurance cost $300, advertising $726.40, and other expenses included six ticket-sellers, six policemen, four ticket-takers, 20 ushers, one sound man, one stagehand, the printing of tickets, and $54.25 worth of fight posters.

This left the partners $1,267.30 between them out of their $17,298 gross — they thought. Three days after the fight, Robert G. Thompson, of the Theatre Network Television, Inc., wrote them as follows:

"Thank you for your check in the amount of $8,169.

"Your check, however, is incorrect in that the percentage is calculated incorrectly. The percentage due TNT is 50 per cent of the net receipts from the sale of admissions for each outlet whose total gross receipts potential is $19,990 or less, or 55 per cent for each outlet whose total gross receipts potential is $20,000 or more.

"The total gross receipts potential in your contract submitted to TNT amounted to $36,535; therefore, your percentage payment due TNT is 55 per cent of the net receipts. I would appreciate receiving your check in the amount of $816.89 for the additional payment due TNT."

This works out by simple arithmetic; the partners' share of $1,267.30, less an additional $816.89 for TNT, left Dundee and Murdock with $450.41, or a clear profit of $225.20 each out of their $17,000 gross. (The odd penny must have got lost.)

"I honestly believe," Dundee says, "it cost me at least $100 in telephone calls."

He could be mistaken about that. Make your calls late enough in the evening these days and they're cheaper than they used to be.

NORM NESTMAN

Hassle Marks Start of Boxla Season
Lean Goalkeeper Bone of Contention

By JIM TAYLOR

It must be lacrosse season. Vancouver and Victoria Shamrocks are fighting again.

This time the object of their disaffection is a baby-faced youngster named Norm Nestman, an outstanding goaltending prospect and probably a mean young man in a poker game.

Nestman is Vancouver property, but he's been looking for a job, and found one in Victoria. He has also asked Shamrocks if he can play his lacrosse for them. It took them almost a second to say yes.

This does not sit well with the Vancouver club in general and president Bill Ellison in particular.

HE'S MAD

"He's on our protected list and I don't like the underhanded way, I might even say the filthy way, Shamrocks have tried to lure him over there," Ellison said. "I'm not one for stopping any boy from getting a job, but I draw the line at making them athletic bums, and Victoria has made quite a few."

And Nestman? He's sitting back, waiting.

"I'm not too concerned where I play lacrosse," he told the Colonist last night. "I'm going where I can make the best deal for myself—and by that I mean where I can find the best job.

COMING TOMORROW

"As far as I'm concerned, I've got a good job offered me in Victoria and I plan to take the Thursday morning ferry over there.

"But," he added, and the grin came through on the telephone, "I just got home, and there's a couple of messages here for me to call people. I'm sure I'm coming to Victoria, but if a job came up here . . ."

"Nestman phoned me to say he was going to Victoria to look for a job," Ellison said. "Practically held a gun at my throat, saying that he'd stay in Vancouver if the jobs were better here."

Lest anyone get the wrong impression of Nestman, get one thing clear. He is not cocksure about his goaltending ability, nor does he expect to be the overnight sensation of the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

BIG MYTH

"There's this myth about my ability," he said. "I'm not good enough now to be a star in senior lacrosse. There's too much I've got to learn. The only point I'm trying to make is that I prefer to play lacrosse where the outside opportunities are best."

Would Ellison, who has stated that promoting lacrosse comes first, make Nestman sit out a season by refusing to release him if he does come to Victoria?

PLAYER WAR?

"I haven't said yes or no," Ellison said. "But I'll tell you one thing. If this is the way the Shamrocks want to play, pirating other people's players, two can play at it, and I think we're in a better position to do it than they are. There's been so much dissension on that club the past few years there must be players who wouldn't mind moving."

"He played for our Junior Shamrocks two years ago and he's been bugging us to come over here ever since," manager Hec McNeill said.

"What does Ellison mean, underhanded?" said president Buss Morgan. "Nestman phoned me a couple of weeks ago, saying he was going to come to Victoria and look for a job, and if he got one could he play with us? What was I supposed to do, hang up?"

That Time of Year Again

With winter bidding a reluctant farewell in these parts this scene looks out of place but it's what's happening every day in Florida and Arizona as 20 major league clubs are well launched on lengthy pre-season schedules. Junior Gilliam of Los Angeles Dodgers looks as if he's out, and out some teeth, too, as he slides in at home plate against the tag of Chris Cannizzaro of New York Mets. But Gilliam got his leg over plate before the tag. Dodgers won, 5-3.—(AP Photofax)

University School XV In Impressive Start

WINDSOR (CP)—A touring Rugby Union team from University School, Victoria, B.C., Tuesday overwhelmed Eton College, 29-3, in the first of their five games in Britain.

Geoffrey Marsland, the master in charge of Rugby Union at Eton, said after the game the college was left with a "feeling of great admiration for the Canadians."

He said their "extreme zest and skill" gave them 23 points in the first half but the play was "rather more even" in the second.

Star of the game was Gary Simonson, the 196-pound American captain who, Marsland said, "impressed not only with his bulk but also with his own playing and handling of the team."

After the match the visitors were entertained at Eton before returning to London today.

The University School team, accompanied by headmaster J. J. Timmis and R. W. Wilson, a former Oxford University cricket and rugby player, paid £230 ($690) each for the three-week tour. The 19-man team includes seven Americans and an Argentinian.

Badminton's Best At Canadian Meet

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian open badminton championships start here today with most of the top players in the world listed among the 165 entries from Canada, the United States, Britain, Europe and Asias.

There are men's and women's singles and doubles competition and mixed doubles play with five senior championships to be decided in both the open and Canadian closed classes. Similar titles will be decided in junior competition.

Both the open and closed competitions will be played as one with the Canadian advancing the farthest in the open declared closed champion.

YOU PRONOUNCE IT

Top competition will be in the men's open singles class with 44 entries. Among them will be Chan - Narong Ratanasaengsuang on Thailand, Dr. Oon Choong Teik of Malaysia, Torben Kops of Denmark and Wayne Macdonnell of Vancouver.

Ratanasaengsuang, referred to as simply Chan-Narong because of the length of his last name, has been seeded first in the men's singles after Erland Kops, Torben's brother, withdrew and returned to Denmark.

Macdonnell, Canadian champion, is second seeded in the open competition with Yoshio Komuya of Japan third and Takeja Miyanaga, also of Japan, fourth.

LADIES' RANKING

Jean Miller of Montreal, former Canadian champion, has been ranked first in the ladies' singles. Marg Shedd of Toronto will not defend her title. Second seeded is Jean Folinsbee of Calgary with Sharon Whittaker and Dorothy Tinline, both of Toronto, seeded third and fourth, respectively.

Gets Call

Trip to Williamsport, Penn., week of June 21-27 is set for Doug Hudlin, who will attend Little League umpires' seminar in his capacity as umpire consultant for Vancouver Island Little League. Hudlin, himself a veteran ump, is attending under joint auspices of Island association and Little League Baseball, Inc.

Scots in Serious Bid To Merit Designation

TODAY'S DRAWS

Afternoon—Canada vs. Switzerland; Scotland vs. Sweden; Norway vs. United States.

Evening—Canada vs. Scotland; Norway vs. Sweden; Switzerland vs. United States.

CALGARY—As had been expected by most, it appears definitely that Scotland is to be the most serious threat to Canada's retention of the Scotch Cup.

Clearly showing the lessons learned in five previous defeats in what is now billed as the world curling championship, Scottish rock-tossers this year could pose a serious challenge.

Although Scotland is recognized as the home of curling, the roaring game almost died there. It was played in few areas, mostly on natural ice when it was available, and mainly by senior citizens. The knockout game was frowned on as being almost bad sportsmanship.

Five successive victories by sharp-shooting Canadians in the Scotch Cup final, which began as a two-country event in 1959 and now embraces six nations, appears to have created some changes.

Youngest rink in the cup playoff this year is the one skipped by Alex Torrance of Hamilton, and it is playing it the Canadian way.

Yesterday, Scotland remained unbeaten along with the Canadian champions skipped by Vancouver's Lyall Dagg, overpowering inexperienced Switzerland, 22-2, and then taking the United States, handily, 11-5.

Torrance, cooly doing what was once almost unthinkable in Scotland, deliberately blanked the ninth end against the U.S. with the score 5-5. The strategy proved good when Torrance counted two on the 10th, and then added two more on each of the final two ends as the Americans lost their touch.

Dagg and his Canadians just coasted home against Norway and Sweden, winning their second and third games 19-2 and 13-6. Sweden made it tough for the U.S. in the afternoon, losing by 6-9—but only after U.S.-skip Robert Magie made a triple takeout on the sixth end which held Sweden to one point.

ROUND-ROBIN ENDS

Last two rounds of the preliminary round-robin will be played today with Canada and Scotland clashing in the evening. Canada plays Switzerland and Scotland plays Sweden in the afternoon.

A knockout competition follows the round-robin play. The first and fourth-place rinks and the second and third-place rinks meet in the semi-finals Thursday afternoon. The winners meet in the evening to decide the champion.

TORONTO — Newfoundland had a rare moment of curling glory in the Canadian mixed-rinks championship.

After going 9-10 in the men's championship and 7-10 in the ladies' championship, Newfoundland appears to have come up with a potent combination with the chance to mix up the sexes.

IT'S TRUE

In any event, skip Bill Allan and his rink from St. John's Bally Haly Golf and Curling Club, scored an unexpected double by following an extra-end win over Glen Gray's Albertans with an 11-8 decision over D. E. Miller and his Saskatchewan champions.

Ahead and unbeaten with three straight victories is Ernie Boushy and his Manitobans, who edged Quebec, 8-7, in an extra-end and then walloped winless Nova Scotia, 12-6, in yesterday's draws.

B.C. LOSES

No More Cast?

Willie Fleming, star halfback of B.C. Lions, hopes he won't have to wear cast on his arm this season after Tuesday operation which reconstructed torn wrist ligament. Doctors pronounced operation success and said Fleming will be able to start 1964 football season.

The defending champions proved that to 900 fans at the Sports Centre last night, slapping down University of Victoria Vikings, 7-1, in the opening game of a best-of-five final in defence of their title.

'TWAS EASY

They scored twice in the first period, twice in the second, gave up a goal early in the third then rapped in three more of their own. Only the clock stopped them from getting more.

MORE PROOF

Pontiacs' domination of the league shows in the all-star teams released last night. They placed three men on the first team and two on the second.

Griffis led the goalies in voting. Iannarelli made it on defence and Orv Coulter at right wing. Filling out the first team were Doug Bambrough of Vikings on defence, Harper on left wing, and Ted Sarkissian of Vikings and Ken Maxwell of Navy, who tied in the voting for centre.

Iannarelli was also named most-valuable player, Harper the most gentlemanly player.

Six Islanders Draw Irish Sweep Horses

Six Vancouver Islanders, four of them in Victoria, have a chance at the $150,000 first prize in the Irish sweepstakes on Saturday's Grand National steeplechase in Aintree, England.

The six were among 336 Canadians named on lucky tickets in the draw completed yesterday. However, the 336 are rooting for a total of 80 horses and less than half of that number is expected to start the race.

ALL ON OUTSIDERS

Drive for Prison Gets MLA Backing

PORT ALBERNI — Alberni Valley winter works campaign committee's bid for a minimum security prison for this area has received the support of Comox MLA John Squire, NDP, and Attorney-General Bonner has given assurance that it will receive departmental study, according to letters read at the regular meeting.

A letter from Local 1-85 IWA suggested that prisons of this nature would not provide employment for local people. During discussion, National Employment Service special placement officer Jim Speedie said he believed local persons would be given preference. He explained that employees must meet minimum educational standards and have basic qualificaitons for the jobs, and after they have been selected they receive the special training required.

Alberni Valley Project

Mr. Speedie said that it is now known that there are plans for four minimum security and one medium security institutions for Vancouver Island.

The medium security prisons generally accommodate 250 inmates and have staffs consisting of 75 guards and other administrative personnel. The camp-type minimum security setup is for 60 prisoners with 12 to 15 persons on the staff.

SEVERAL PLACES

There are several places in this area where the prisoners could be used to advantage in parks work, he said.

"I can see the IWA's point of view. If the prisoners were to do work which would otherwise be done by union men, there would be no advantage in having them here," he said.

Mr. Speedie said that prisoners assigned to minimum security prisons are not considered "bad risks." As a rule, he said, they are first offenders.

LOWER RATES

The committee agreed to suggest to chartered banks and credit unions that lower rates be established on home improvement loans to cover work to be done during winter months. The federal finance minister will be queried on the matter.

B.C. Tel Shuffles Numbers

Dial C for Change

By JACK FRY

B.C. Telephone Company has to change prefixes on some 4,000 telephone numbers to keep pace with Greater Victoria's rapid growth.

A. A. Higinbotham, district manager, said yesterday the number changes will be tied in with construction of a $1,000,000 automatic exchange at Cordova Bay this year.

"This expansion of facilities is necessary to keep pace with business development and residential growth in Greater Victoria and the Saanich Peninsula," he said.

Some 4,000 subscribers whose numbers will be affected by the prefix changes will be notified by the company by letter this week.

Three prefixes will be changed and a fourth prefix will be added to the system.

The EV 6 (or 386) prefix will be changed to 388 for about 1,000 telephones in the 4000 and 5000 number groups. For example, if your number was EV 6-4000, it will become EV 8-4000.

The GR 4 or (474) prefix will be changed to 652 for the Keating exchange, while the Sidney exchange prefix will be changed from GR 5 (or 475) to 656.

The new Cordova Bay exchange will have the prefix 658, when it is built and goes into operation in December, 1964. This office, on Wesley Road near Haliburton, will serve about 850 subscribers now served by the Colquitz office and 50 subscribers from the Keating office.

The EV 6 changeover will take place April 1, although subscribers will be able to dial either EV 6 or EV 8 and get the same party until December when the Cordova Bay office opens and all other prefix changes will become effective.

All the new numbers will appear in the next edition of the telephone directory.

Cougars Hunted

FULFORD HARBOR—Cougar tracks were reported yesterday on Salt Spring Island, according to sheep rancher Robert Akerman.

Chief predator hunter James Dewar of Nanaimo is now on the island conducting a search with his cougar hounds.

Victoria, Burnaby

Land Grants Urged For B.C. Universities

The provincial government should set aside 4,000,000 acres of endowment land for the University of Victoria and Burnaby's Simon Fraser University, says Point Grey MLA Pat McGeer.

The Liberal member suggested in the legislature yesterday "it isn't fair" that the University of B.C. should be the only university to benefit from endowment land in B.C.

The government should set aside 2,000,000 acres of land in the northern part of the province for each of the two new universities.

The universities should have outright ownership of this land and be given the power to manage it, but should never be allowed to sell the land, said Mr. McGeer.

This land might return $2,000,000 a year in stumpage rates for timber and this value would rise in time, he said. It could be "a painless way" of financing operation of the universities.

Mr. McGeer also suggested that the UBC endowment land, which is held by the government, should be deeded back to the university for further development.

Bagged Garbage Plan Studied in Nanaimo

NANAIMO — The use of polyethelene bags in the garbage collection operation will be considered by the garbage committee of Nanaimo's city council.

The manufacturer suggested the use of the bags would prevent the necessity of unsightly garbage cans as "the garbage bag and all can be thrown on the garbage truck." The bags would cost approximately five cents each.

Chairman of the committee, Ald. George Bryce, said "there would be quite a few drawbacks to this type of collection."

He said the bags could create an ideal situation for dogs who could easily drag them away and would be a hazard as far as children are concerned.

Museum

Village Backing Expected

LAKE COWICHAN—Following the enthusiastic endorsement of Duncan City council which pledged to assist in buying 19 acres of land at the Drinkwater Road and Somenos Lake for the newly-founded Cowichan Forest Museum, chairman of the village commission here, Mrs. M. Child, said "It is my opinion the commission will agree in principle."

Mayor Jack Dobson Monday night told council at Duncan he had met with Mrs. Child and North Cowichan Reeve Donald Morton recently and all three agreed to buy the 19 acres for the museum for $37,000 providing the respective councils give their approval.

MEETING SOON

Mrs. Child said her village council will meet with Cowichan Forest Museum officials in the near future.

A decision on the cost-sharing purchase of the museum land from the North Cowichan municipality is expected today at the afternoon council meeting.

Earlier a museum spokesman said it is hoped to have the valuable Wellburn collection of historical logging equipment transferred to the new site during this summer from its present location at the estate of Gerald Wellburn at Deerholme.

Several weeks ago a news story stating the possibility of the museum being relocated in the Victoria area sparked prompt action from worried residents and civic officials here, and Mr. Wellburn agreed that his collection should remain in the area where logging and lumbering are so predominant.

It is anticipated the big logging industry on Vancouver Island will also assist the museum project financially.

Minimum Security Prison

Chamber Won't Back Bid

PORT ALBERNI — The Chamber of Commerce here will not support the local winter works campaign committee in its bid for a minimum security prison for the area.

While no one spoke in favor of the plan, several members aired opinions on why the district should not have such a situation.

50 PER CENT

One man claimed that 50 per cent of the prisoners would remain in the immediate area after discharge, increasing the unemployment. Another claimed that establishment of a prison gave a town the name of having insufficient industry to support its population. Another declared that Bamfield would be a better situation.

President Mrs. Edna Souther, Bill Beckingham and Felix Nicholson will represent the Chamber at the annual meeting of the ACCVI in Duncan on March 23 and 24.

A committee consisting of Al Parker, Miss Irene Scarff and Elmer Speidel was named to choose the Chamber's contestant in the Miss Alberni Valley competition being sponsored by the Junior Chamber.

A joint executive meeting will be held Wednesday evening to discuss the possibility of the Chamber and Alberni Board of Trade amalgamating, Mrs. Souther announced.

Mr. Beckingham said he is of the opinion that before a decision is made on the joining of the two organizations, the chamber should find out whether it can take a firm stand on the matter of amalgamation of the two cities.

Cowichan Copper

Mine Creditors Will Wait

VANCOUVER (CP) — Creditors of Cowichan Copper Co. Ltd. agreed at a meeting here Tuesday to a proposal of debt deferment to pave the way for new financing to put the mine back into production.

In the proposal, made by O. G. MacDonald, president, it was stated that acceptance would make it possible to obtain a $1,000,000 loan which would be tied to a concentrate-purchasing contract.

The meeting was attended by creditors whose claims totalled $2,498,228.

Acceptance of the proposal by the creditors must receive court approval. When approval is obtained, it is understood the new backers will make surveys at the Cowichan property at Jordan River, northwest of Victoria.

Cowichan's Sunro mine has been out of action since Dec. 6 when the river broke through into a mined-out stope and flooded the workings.

Courtenay Merchants

New Shop Bylaw Opposed

COURTENAY—Members of a large delegation to city council here were united in only one thing: all opposed the projected bylaw amendment governing shopping in Courtenay.

Under the proposed amendment, Courtenay stores would be open for five and a half days, closing Wednesday afternoons, and remaining open for six days during June, July, August and September.

Closing day appeared to be the big question—and here even the delegates disagreed among themselves.

The group, representing the Retail Merchants' Association, included two from building supply firms. One favored closing Saturday afternoon, the other wanted Monday afternoon.

MONDAY CLOSING

The real estate representative wanted to keep the present Monday afternoon closing, although admitting that some firms stayed open Mondays and did much of their business then.

Representative for the barbers was opposed to staying open Friday nights.

Council heard all spokesmen —then gave first and second reading to the amendment as proposed by Ald. Ken Willis.

Third reading will likely be given April 6 at council meeting, with the possibility of some amendments then.

Only one exemption was mentioned in the amendment. It applied to corner stores.

BRIEF PRESENTED

In further council news a brief was presented on behalf of the B.C. Aeronautics Association, asking the federal government to set up a provincial aeronautics commission.

This commission would use provincial and federal money to build airstrips, and then turn them over to the municipalities to operate. As an example the Campbell River airport was mentioned. City council voted to endorse the brief.

Gulf Islanders Critical Of Ferries, Publicity

Delegates were unhappy about B.C. Ferry Authority plans to institute a reservation system for automobiles on the Queen of the Islands this year, and about a reduction in the number of Gulf Island inserts for publicity distribution.

Chaotic conditions at the wharves were feared with a reservation plan, particularly at Village Bay on Mayne Island, where lack of line-up space already creates traffic snarls.

Inter-island fares were also criticized, as well as the continuing problem of lack of transportation between Salt Spring Island, North and South Pender and Saturna.

Delegates approved a motion for an early meeting of the transportation committees from the five islands on Mayne, to prepare a list of recommendations for the ferry authority.

New plans call for a reduction to 10,000 of the folders including the Island inserts, while the ferry authority would distribute about 125,000 without the inserts.

Delegates, feeling this would not yield the coverage to which donations by Island businesses and organizations entitled them, moved that the same sum be contributed this year provided at least 50,000 copies were distributed including the Island insert.

Beam trawlers operating in the Gulf Islands also came in for criticism.

Apart from scenery, fishing is the major Island tourist attraction, and the meeting felt that draggers destroyed fish and the food to sustain them.

Traffic Bottlenecks Plaguing Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Traffic safety and traffic bottlenecks continue to be a thorn in the side of Nanaimo city council.

Ald. Jack Parker said "Nanaimo is notorious for people going through stop signs. If it is possible for drivers to slide through them they will slow down and slide."

Wallace and Fitzwilliam, Crace and Nicol, and Stewart and Terminal on the approach to the Pearson Bridge are the intersections giving council the most trouble.

"Traffic in other parts of the city is equally dangerous," said Ald. Parker. "Crosswalks don't guarantee immunity from being knocked down but they certainly help."

Council had earlier considered making Fraser Street, which runs into the Wallace-Fitzwilliam intersection, a one-way street but decided to consider some further action.

DIVERT FLOW

Ald. Parker explained:

"There is quite a bit of traffic at that intersection but making Fraser a one-way street would only push the flow off onto another intersection."

Ald. Ted Barsby asked the traffic and safety committee to discuss the possibility of installing traffic control lights at the intersection of Nicol and Crace streets. He said the intersection becomes dangerous at the time pulp mill workers are travelling to and from work three times a day.

NO REPLY RECEIVED

The situation at the Stewart Avenue side of the Pearson Bridge which is causing traffic bottlenecks has been brought to the attention of the department of highways but no reply has yet been received.

Mayor Pete Maffeo was absent from the council meeting and it was learned he was attempting to arrange a meeting with Highways Minister Gaglardi, to discuss this situation.

Nanaimo Court

Impairment Dismissed Evidence Criticized

The charge against Joseph Percy Kidder of Nanaimo was laid Dec. 25, 1963, after a two-car collision at Bowen Road and Pryde Street at 2:30 a.m.

Magistrate Beevor-Potts said "I am very much of the opinion that the accused was impaired, but my opinion doesn't count and the evidence does. The statements of the witnesses were contradictory and I am very surprised RCMP did not take notes at the scene of the accident."

Oil Kills Millions of Clams

OLYMPIA (AP) — A grounded fuel barge has been pulled free off the Washington coast north of Aberdeen, leaving behind devastation in the heart of the state's famous clam beds.

The state fisheries department said tens of thousands of pounds of razor clams—along with other sea life—have been killed in a wide area contaminated with oil and gas from the barge.

Department officials, calling it a "major marine disaster," immediately closed the commercal clam digging season in a 10-mile stretch.

Assistant director J. E. Lasater, who toured the area Tuesday, said other closures may be ordered soon. He said the kill was spreading south.

"It looks like total devastation of a considerable area," he said. "There are areas where dead and dying razor clams are so thick you can't walk without stepping on them."

Lasater said he also found smaller numbers of dead crabs, perch, tom cod and other fish, birds, small beach snails, sea worms and other forms of beach life.

Fisheries biologists were trying late Tuesday to determine the extent of the loss. Officials had estimated a kill of 32,000 pounds already through Sunday.

The 10-mile stretch where the commercial closure was ordered is in the heart of about 100 miles of ocean beaches packed with razor clams, Lasater said.

Nearly 14,000,000 clams were taken in the state last year.

It was not immediately determined how many gallons of gas and oil poured onto the beach areas from the barge.

The Aberdeen World said it learned 500,000 gallons of diesel oil were discharged into the sea late Monday night to lighten the barge so it could be pulled free at high tide.

The World said another 750,000 gallons of gasoline had leaked from the damaged vessel since it went aground last Wednesday.

Archives Sure For City

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa agreed Tuesday to modifications asked by four provinces, including British Columbia, in the original Pearson plan to have a string of new performing arts centres built across Canada for the 1967 centennial celebrations.

An agreement will probably be signed in two weeks which will assure a new archives building in Victoria.

SENATE RAPS WEST'S BANK

OTTAWA (CP) — Promoters of the proposed Bank of Western Canada were accused in the Senate Tuesday night of contempt of Parliament over news reports that shares in the enterprise were being sold before parliamentary incorporation.

The accusation was made by Senator A. J. Brooks, opposition leader in the upper chamber. Senator M. Wallace McCutcheon (PC, Ontario) said the system being employed to reserve shares in the enterprise places Parliament in the position of possibly being responsible for financial losses to subscribers.

$18 BIDS

Senator Brooks complained on a question of privilege that the Toronto Globe and Mail reported Tuesday shares in the western bank were being offered to the public at $15 each and bids were being made at $18 a share.

He called on sponsors of the bill in Parliament to explain how shares could be sold before

Trustee Office Phones Tapped

OTTAWA (UPI) — Labor Minister MacEachen confirmed Tuesday attempts have been made to wire-tap a telephone line in the Montreal headquarters of the Canadian maritime trusteeship.

MacEachen told the Commons there was evidence that wires were attached to one telephone line in the trustees' downtown offices that "with suitable equipment could be used to monitor" conversations.

SUCCESS NOT PROVED

The labor minister also said investigation to date has failed to prove whether any wire taps were successful in listening to conversations. He also said he knew of no evidence available, at present, indicating who was responsible.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America, said Tuesday he fully supports Canadian SIU chief Hal Banks and would oppose any action to remove Banks from his job.

SECRET PACT?

Hall was commenting on a Toronto newspaper report a secret Canada-U.S. agreement had been reached to guarantee labor peace on the Great Lakes and that Banks would be removed from his job in three weeks.

"There is obviously no truth in this story," Hall said.

Savages, Snakes Get Four

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—A well-armed 40-man relief column is nearing a 65-man patrol besieged for six days in the "green hell" of the Amazon by 1,000 savage Indians, the government said yesterday.

The patrol has suffered at least four dead and six injured since last Friday in repeated sneak attacks by the poisoned arrow-firing savages.

Last reports received here said jungle jaguars and deadly snakes were contributing to the discomfort of the besieged patrol.

'Ask Leo' Is Key To Session End

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The end of the first session of British Columbia's 27th legislature is only days away—but the question is, how many days?

But the eyes of 51 legislators, a dozen members of the legislative press gallery and sundry legislative officials focus on a garrulous, elf-like figure who occupies a desk in the ranks of the official opposition.

He is 56-year-old Leo Thomas Nimsick, the New Democratic Party member for Cranbrook and a resident of Kimberley.

As he rises from his seat during the waning days of debate hopes for an early end to the session plummet.

When he sits down they rise.

Cyprus Quiet

More Canadians Arrive

NICOSIA (AP)—More Canadian soldiers flew into Cyprus Tuesday as the van of a United Nations peace force, easing renewed fears that Turkey might create an explosive crisis by landing troops on this angry island. (See also Pages 5, 24.)

The total 1,150 men Canada is sending to Cyprus is expected to be here by the end of this week. A Canadian officer said it will be a few days before the Canadian contingent undertakes any duties in the republic.

Meanwhile, the guns of the rival Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot communities remained silent, although the issues that divide them still blaze.

In Athens, a Greek government source said that with the buildup of the UN peace force, there was no cause for immediate concern.

He was referring to the fact that Turkey's parliament Monday gave Premier Ismet Inonu full powers to take action in the Cyprus crisis.

Sympathy for Hunger Strikers

Negroes Out of Control?

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A civil rights leader has raised the prospect of "uncontrolled demonstrations" in sympathy with a weary contingent of hunger strikers in the gallery of Kentucky's State House.

ACTING LEADER

The statement was made Tuesday by Negro lawyer Harry McAlpin of Louisville, acting chairman of the Allied Organizations for Civil Rights and a member of the state board of education.

"The dignity and public image of Kentucky is seriously at stake," McAlpin said. "Uncontrolled demonstrations may be triggered by the state general assembly's refusal to act on public accommodations."

He said what began at noon Monday as a strong protest by 17 Negroes and six whites could escalate into protests throughout the state.

The group arrived from Louisville and vowed to sit in the House of Representatives and starve until the legislature acts on a civil rights measure now or in a special session. The regular session ends Friday.

BOTTLED UP

Bills which would grant Negroes equal access to public businesses have been bottled up in House and Senate rules committees.

Legislators, who at first reacted with humor and amusement, seemed a bit concerned Tuesday for the health of the protestors. But they held to the belief that the demonstration would not affect any legislative plans.

Plane Crashes Into Ocean

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — One U.S. navy jet fighter crashed into the ocean last night after hundreds of persons reported seeing an explosion in the sky, and the U.S. coast guard said the plane apparently collided in flight with a sister aircraft.

The pilot of one plane ejected and was rescued.

The navy did not immediately confirm any such collision. But the coast guard at Long Beach said a second aircraft was missing and the pilot was being sought.
